Parole Grand Jury to Hear Gov. Davey Friday

EXECUTIVE TO FACE PAINTER PARDON QUIZ

Richland Officials Still Wait Word From Duffy on Panel Session Here Next Week.

AFTER 70 IN CLEVELAND

Governor Told He Can Reveal Testimony Before Parole Jury to Public.

The investigation of the Ohio parole system, which will center in Richland county next week, brought developments on two fronts today. They were:

Gov. Martin L. Davey announced he would appear before the Franklin county special grand jury at 2 p. m. tomorrow.

Cuyahoga County Assistant Prosecutor John P. Butler ordered arrest of 70 paroled Mansfield reformatory inmates who have failed to answer summonses in the investigation of their releases from the institution here.

No Word Here.

Meanwhile, beyond the announcement made yesterday that a special Richland county grand jury would be impanelled next week to look into reformatory paroles, little was known here about the plans of Attorney General Herbert S Duffy, heading the state-wide investigation, as to procedure here.

Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston, who will have to issue the order convening the grand jury, said today he had received no word from Duffy. Neither had Prosecutor Glenn W. Marriott.

The Associated Press reported today that George Hurley, an assistant attorney general, would conduct the Mansfield inquiry and quoted Duffy as saying he does not expect to come to Mansfield himself.

Governor Davey will be questioned by the grand jury in Columbus tomorrow concerning the pardon he granted Kenyon V. Painter, convicted Cleveland bank executive, on the grounds that Painter was seriously ill and in danger of death. Painter has evaded subpena servers who sought to bring him before the grand jury.

Davey Statement Allowed.

In announcing that he would appear at 2 p. m. Friday, Davey again asked Duffy to make his testimony public, dispatches from Columbus said. This Duffy declined to do, but informed the governor that he might make any public statement he wishes after leaving the witness stand.

The 70 paroled inmates whose arrest was ordered in Cleveland today for questioning in that phase of the Duffy investigation are believed to be those other witnesses said had paid to obtain their paroles.

'MUST' ORDER

Garner to Wear Stiff Shirt and Tails, Stay Up 'Late.'

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Whether he likes it or not—and he doesn't—Vice President Garner will have to stand still at 7:30 o'clock tonight while Mrs. Garner coaxes his white tie into place.

A half hour later they will be due at the White House for the annual dinner given the vice president by the president. Eighty guests will be present, and 50 more will come after dinner for a musicale.

For more than a century this dinner has been part of the annual White House social season. But for 15 years Vice President Garner has gone to bed at 9 p. m., and throughout his adult life he has fumed at putting on stiff shirts and tails.

12 YEARS LATE

Refund Refused On Fee Paid For Unused Marriage Permit.

NEW BRITAIN, Conn.—(AP)—A resident asked Town Clerk Harry E. Scheuy to refund $1 which he paid for a marriage license—12 years ago.

Explaining he could use the money, the claimant said the wedding failed to materialize because "my girl ran out on me." Scheuy said he could not return the fee.

ROBBERS USE BIKES

OKLAHOMA CITY—(AP)—Delivery boy Murlin Byrd reported to police two men robbed him of three bottles of beer, cigarets and $14.61, and fled on—of all things—a bicycle.

Evasion Charged

NEW JUSTICE TO FACE SCRUTINY

Senators Agree Sutherland's Successor to Be Given Close Investigation.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The house judiciary committee suggested to President Roosevelt today that he choose Representative Sumners D., Tex) chairman of the committee, to succeed Associate Justice George Sutherland who decided yesterday to retire Jan. 18.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Senators commenting on the retirement from the supreme court of Justice Sutherland emphasized two points today:

1. That President Roosevelt's nominee to fill the vacancy will be subjected to careful senatorial scrutiny.

2. That the prospect of a definite "liberal" majority on the court shoved far into the background any possibility of reviving the president's judiciary reorganization bill.

Senator Bridges (R-NH) already has proposed that senate hearings be required on supreme court nominations, and was expected to seek approval of such a rule before a nomination is submitted.

Senator Copeland (D-NY), who first asserted Justice Hugo L. Black had been a Ku Klux Klansman, said any nominee would be "closely scrutinized."

SENATE OK'S 10 MILLIONS TO AID NEEDY

Davey's $7,500,000 Program For Fund Matching Brushed Aside by Chamber.

BILL SENT TO GOVERNOR

Signature to Pave Way For Immediate Disbursement of $6,500,000 For Relief.

COLUMBUS— (U.P.)—After battering down obstacles which for weeks have blocked enactment of emergency poor relief legislation, the Ohio senate early today approved appropriations totaling $10,500,000 for 1938 relief expenditures

Members of the upper chamber brushed aside Governor Davey's program, providing for a $7,500,000 appropriations with the requirement that state allocations be matched dollar for dollar by local subdivisions, and passed

Up to Governor.

1. The Huml-Grubbs-Wright bill appropriating $6,500,000 from this year's selective sales tax receipts with local subdivisions required to furnish 50 cents for every dollar allocated by the state The bill was approved, 32 to 0, and having already passed the house, now goes to the governor for his signature, after which distributions will be started.

2. The amended Huml bill levying a tax of .65 of one per cent on gross receipts of public utilities for the next two years and earmarking for relief revenues from the admissions, malt, wort and beverage taxes, with no matching requirements. The bill was passed, 30 to 0

It now goes back to the house for concurrence in several amendments, the most important of which are the reduction in the utilities excise tax from one per cent, as approved by the house, to 65 of one per cent, as adopted by the senate, and the cut in the tax on beer, set at 24 cents a case by the house, but reduced to 12 cents a case by the senate

Cuts Estimated Yield.

As passed by the house, the bill would raise $5,500 000 The senate amendments, however, would cut the estimated yield to slightly more than $4 000 000.

Representative Lody Huml, (D., Cuyahoga), sponsor of the bill, said today that he will request appointment of a conference committee to iron out the amendments when the house next convenes, probably Friday.

UNDER GUARD

Kidnap Suspect Watched After Pal Leaps to Death.

RICHMOND, Ind.—(AP)—Alert deputies guarded William Chester Marcum, 30, of New Castle, confessed kidnaper, with unusual care today to thwart any suicidal moves.

Marcum's partner, Harry C. Walter, 52, of Muncie, father of five children, dived 15 feet to a concrete floor in the county jail and died of multiple skull fractures yesterday.

Prosecutor John Britton said Marcum, an unemployed carpenter, would be arraigned Saturday on charges of kidnaping three-year-old John Bryan, jr., banker's son, and three other persons at Centerville, Ind., Christmas eve The crime is punishable by death in the electric chair, or life imprisonment.

State Police Superintendent Don Stivel said Marcum and Walter, arrested in and near Muncie Tuesday, signed confessions.

Scene of Triple Slaying, One of Victims

Pictured here are the scene and one of the victims of the triple murder at North Lima, near Youngstown, Tuesday night in which Henry Baumeister, 35 (inset top), his wife, 40, and his father, Theodore, 60, were killed. The latter two were found beaten to death in the barn, shown at top. The younger Baumeister was shot to death in the home. Lower picture shows deputies examining the spot where Mrs. Baumeister's body was found. Police in three states had joined today in hunting the slayers of the trio.

HUNT FARMHAND IN SIX MURDERS

Identical Ohio, Michigan Triple Killings Spur Search For Youth, 21.

YOUNGSTOWN —(AP)— West Virginia and Michigan police cooperated today with local authorities in an effort to track down a 21-year-old farmhand hunted in a triple Mahoning county farm slaying.

Funeral services will be conducted at nearby North Lima tomorrow for the victims—Henry Baumeister, 35, his wife, 40, and his father, Theodore, 60. Henry was shot and his wife and father beaten to death Tuesday.

The farm worker, who came from Pennsylvania recently, left the scene in the family's automobile shortly before the victims were discovered by a house-to-house salesman.

Sergeant V. C. Wart, of the Parkersburg office of the West Virginia state police, instructed state troopers to watch for the automobile after the youth was reported to have left Parkersburg early yesterday

Michigan state police forwarded from East Lansing files on a triple slaying on a farm near Fenton last spring in the belief there might be a connection between the similar tragedies.

Jehiel Davis, 76, his wife Eleanor, 73, and his sister, Mrs. Lydia Hindebrandt, 72, were killed in virtually the same manner in Michigan, and a young farmhand disappeared after the multiple slaying, detectives said.

In both the Ohio and Michigan cases, officers said, the farmhands had been employed only a few weeks.

FREE CURRENT WILLARD'S GIFT

City Won't Have To Pay Light Bills For January.

WILLARD — Because of high earnings from the municipal water and light plant, Willard citizens today received a belated Christmas gift from the city.

The gift was in the form of this month's electric bill marked "paid."

City officials said the exact amount of the gift has not yet been determined but said that monthly income from electrical service totals approximately $6,000.

ATTACKS AGAIN

Ickes Says Laws Must Be Passed for 'Sidesteppers.'

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, continuing his attacks on the "small lawless minority" in business, said today that if big corporations can sidestep present legislation to thwart the people, additional laws must be enacted to protect American democracy.

Waterworks Profit Sets New Record

Department Finishes Year With $17,630 Surplus, Best In 12 Years.

With an increased daily water consumption and decreased operating costs and bond payments, Mansfield's municipal water department finished 1937 with a net profit of $17,630.60, the annual report being prepared today by Arthur C. McMullen, retiring superintendent of the water-works department revealed.

This figure boosted the water department's unencumbered balance to $19,412.84. The department began 1937 with a balance of $1,782.

This was the greatest surplus built up by the department in the past 12 years, records indicate, despite noticeable reductions in collections during the last three months of the year, McMullen said.

Previous High $11,000.

The greatest previous 12-month surplus in recent years was in 1935 when the department cleared approximately $11,000.

During the past year the department collected $146,533.57 from water rents as compared with $140,191 in 1936, but the total receipts were boosted by revenues from other sources to $151,105 as against $144,658 for the previous year.

Expenditures decreased from $158,941 in 1936 to $133,474 for the past year.

A revised schedule for the operation of delivery pumps at the Maxwell station along with the [illegible] effected a savings in the department's power bills of $11,105 for the year was given by McMullen as one of the reasons for the increase in the profit and the decrease in expenditures.

In the past 12 months the department's power bill totalled $29,943 as compared with $41,053 for the previous year.

He also explained that a new 10-year power contract that the city has with the Ohio Public Service company has materially effected a savings in the power bills. The new contract calls for a rebate of $350 monthly for prompt payment of the account.

The report also shows that the department showed a profit despite a five per cent salary restoration that was authorized by council early last year.

At the beginning of 1937 delinquent water rents outstanding on the books amounted to approximately $30,000. This figure has been reduced to $23,205 as of Jan. 1, 1938.

During the year the department

LONE '5-SPOT' IN RELIEF FUND

Money For Needy Nearly Gone, County Sees Hope as Ohio Senate Passes 2 Bills.

With only $5 left in the county relief fund, Richland county officials saw the cloud lifted today from the relief picture with the approval of $19,500,000 in poor relief appropriations by the Ohio senate.

Passed by the senate last night, two measures, one providing $6,500,000 and the other about $4,000 000 for relief in 1938, need the signature of Gov. Martin L Davey before fund distributions can be made. The bills were passed by the house previously.

Although the larger appropriation requires the counties to furnish 50 cents for every dollar allocated by the state, County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe said that Richland county will receive enough in state funds under an existing law to lift the direct relief burden entirely from the county's shoulders.

The county receives from $3,500 to $4,000 monthly for retiring relief bonds which has been used in the past year for direct relief expenses

Wolfe estimated that the county will get $18,000 in bond retirement funds before the present law expires April 1, and that amount, he said, may be used for matching purposes in obtaining additional funds. No money is available from the county's general fund, Wolfe added.

County relief bills have been paid to Dec. 1, but the December and January bills, estimated to total more than $20,000 must wait until action is taken by the governor to provide more funds, Wolfe stated.

Under the second measure passed by the senate approximately $4,000,000 would be available from a tax on gross receipts of public utilities The bill requires no matching by local subdivisions

GOES TO COURT

NLRB Ruling on Ford Plant Heads For U. S. Tribunal.

DETROIT—(AP)—The decision of the National Labor Relations board that the Ford Motor company violated the Wagner act was headed toward the United States court of appeals today.

Preliminary skirmishing ended yesterday when the NLRB denied in Washington the Ford petition for a rehearing

Almost immediately the respondent filed with the Detroit office of the board notice that it did not intend to comply with numerous provisions of the board's decision, including an order to re-hire 29 persons allegedly dismissed for union activity.

The company contended it had not violated the act, that most of the charges made against it were "unjustified by the facts."

ARREST TWO ON LOTTERY CHARGE

Shelby Police Act After Theater Stages "Bank Night."

SHELBY—Charged with conducting a lottery, Hal Shreffler, manager of the Castamba theater, was bound over to the county common pleas court after a hearing in Mayor D B. Young's court today. Shreffler is charged with conducting "Bank Nights" in violation of a Shelby ordinance. His bond was set at $100.

Milton Schosberg of Bellefontaine, who is charged with promoting the lottery at the theater, will appear before Mayor Young tomorrow. Shreffler and Schosberg were arrested yesterday on warrants signed by Police Chief Leroy Coffey.

BARES LETTERS

State to Disclose Quarrels at Wife-Killer's Trial.

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—District Attorney Burton Fitts released today several letters written by Mrs. Evelyn Wright to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E McBride of Detroit, that are to be used in the trial of her husband, Paul A. Wright, charged with murdering her and John B. Kimmel.

The letters detail incidents of the couple's unsettled domestic life that led to the slaying of Mrs. Wright and Kimmel in Wright's Glendale home Nov. 10.

One letter, to her mother, dated Oct. 27, 1936, read

"Paul and I are on the verge of separation all the time Last week he saw a lawyer to make arrangements for me to see him, and it is only because I didn't go down that we are still together."

"I love Paul but the knowledge he cares so little for me is getting me."

FOES MAP NEW FILIBUSTER TO BLOCK DEBATE

Southern Bloc Determined To 'Talk Bill to Death' But Backers See Approval.

BOTH FACTIONS PRIMED

Ready For Fight as Battle-Scarred Legislation Goes Before Senate Again.

WASHINGTON — (UP) — The senate takes up the bitterly controversial anti-lynching bill at noon today with its friends and foes equally primed for a last-ditch battle.

Its friends hoped to press it to a vote, claiming enough votes to pass it. It already has passed the house. Its foes seemed determined to engage in a filibuster to talk it to death.

Blocked In Special Session.

The bill caused a filibuster in the first days of the recent special session. It comes up at the beginning of the regular session by special agreement, and will occupy the attention of the upper house until it is disposed of or until there is agreement to put it aside for other business. The bill's supporters talked of getting it approved after 10 days of debate; its foes mentioned a filibuster lasting as long as six months.

The opposition, led by senators from the south, has opposed federal anti-lynching legislation for decades. Its leaders saw an opportunity to prolong the debate until a jam of vital administration legislation has been piled up behind the bill. Then, when the demand for action on other issues grows strong, they will seek to apply pressure on the bill's sponsors to put it aside.

Sen. William [illegible] (D., [illegible]) constitutional grounds, and Sen. Tom Connally, (D., Tex.) one of the bloc of southern senators leading the opposition, will open the debate. The remainder of an opposition bloc of 15 members, solidified at secret meetings last week, will carry the brunt of the filibustering.

Remain Confident.

Sen. Robert F. Wagner (D., N. Y.) and Sen. Frederick Van Nuys (D., Ind.), leaders of the proponents, were as confident that the bill would be passed as the opponents were that it would not.

Wagner and Van Nuys claimed 65 to 70 votes for the bill and believed that two weeks would be enough to exhaust the filibuster.

The bill would make localities and local peace officers liable to heavy fines if it were proved that they were negligent in failing to forestall a lynching. Its sponsors contend that in putting the power of the federal government behind enforcement of anti-lynch laws, it would stop lynching.

Opponents charged it is an outrageous evasion of the rights of states, and that it would serve to increase rather than decrease lynching.

'Face The Music,' Hit-Skip Driver Advised By Paper

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Less than 24 hours after a hit-skip motorist seriously injured 24-year-old Betty J. Queisser, Wells college junior, in suburban Cleveland Heights, the Plain Dealer received a postcard, printed in pencil, which read:

"Please print in your letter colum and tell me what will happen to me. Last nite I acidently run down a lady. It wasnt my fault. I got a famly to feed and got a job last week. I cant lose it. I got to know what hapened. She screamed so awful. I been wandering three hours:"

In reply the newspaper said:

"There is only one answer: face the music. For nothing ever can happen to the self-respect of one who speaks the truth and acts like a man. * * * You have two choices: fear, quivering, aching secret fear—of everybody you see and of yourself, the worst kind. Or else, speaking the truth, lifting a heavy load from your mind, and consideration at the hands of the law. Your message shows you have human feelings. Prove it. Step forward and be a man!"

Bills Paid, Christmas Fund Lays Aside Balance of $170

Mansfield's 1937 Community Christmas Fund was marked "closed" today by Treasurer Paul M. Eliot, secretary-treasurer of the Farmers Savings and Trust company as he paid the final bills and tucked away a balance of $170 in a savings account for a starter on next year's work.

Eliot said that the net Community Christmas Fund this year, including the cash on hand prior to Dec 1, 1937, was $1,679.20, while the gross had been $2,096.91. Total expenditures, including charity show expenses were $1 926 62, leaving a balance, with all bills paid of $170.29.

Cost of the 700 baskets distributed this Christmas was approximately $2.10 each, not including canned food which was contributed. This figure also included the food that was served at the Salvation Army dinner Christmas day to needy men without homes.

The sole administration cost of the basket project was $2, a janitor fee. The services of two full time workers were contributed by the News-Journal and the American Legion Headquarters for a four weeks period, with no expenses other than janitor service, was made possible through the cooperation of Mansfield business concerns, among them the Charles

Fights Charge He Forced 3 of Family to Roam Nude In Hills

LOS ANGELES—(U.P.)—Mark Silverman, who was held on a lunacy complaint made by his sister-in-law, protested today that he had committed no offense worse than free thinking.

He denied that he called himself Jesus Christ, or that he forced his family to accompany him into the hills, discard their clothes and subsist on nuts and herbs

These were the charges that Mrs. Dorothy Silverman made, and on which a dozen sheriff's men went into the hills to arrest him.

He said the family had made the expedition to the hills for their health.

"I am a believer in the power of mind over matter," he explained. "I also believe that vegetables, fruits and nuts are the only correct foods to eat."

He said he was a free-thinker and that he was a hypnotist, but had no delusions of being a deity, and had not forecast the end of the world for Christmas.

Mrs. Dorothy Silverman did not make the trip to the hills, he said, and her ideas of what happened there were false.

He had a witness in another sister-in-law who was in the hills, Mrs. Becky Silverman, and who described it as a lark.

The complaint against Silverman

That New Brushed Up Effect

Courtesy Bonwit-Teller

This very modern style coiffure is called "Turn of the Century" and was styled by Sydney. This is an example of the new brushed up style which is the rage in Paris The arrangement pictured brushes the hair sleekly up against the sides into a cluster of cruls at the top. The curls are decorated with an elaborate ornament.

REMEMBER THAT NIGHT

By MARGARET GORMAN NICHOLS

CHAPTER XXIV

A letter from Cora Hillman with a page from a Harriston newspaper reached Karen at her hotel in Baltimore. She had to smile at the photograph taken while she was in high school. Was she that girl? That girl knew nothing. But she had dreams in her eyes How long ago that seemed!

Cora wrote. "Am I swaggering? You're the pride of the town and the talk of the bridge clubs! Home town girl makes good. They are saying, 'I always knew she would.' But I still say you can have it and I'll keep my job of keeping the home fires burning and trying out new recipies and getting Ted's slippers for him before he comes home at night. Don't let it change you, Karen. I don't think it will. And don't forget Harriston and us. Speaking of us, there will be three next year.

"But isn't there a man in your life—yet?"

Baltimore had acclaimed "Youth Went Yesterday" with enthusiasm. Would Broadway? That was what Karen was thinking when she left that week-end. Always she would have a warm feeling for Baltimore and especially for old Ford's theater, scene of her first success.

Quiet, motherly Mrs. Reid sighed with relief to be home when she opened the door of Brenda's apartment and switched on the light.

"Stacks of mail!" Brenda cried. She took off her mink coat and went directly to the desk. "Bills." She smiled at Karen. "Get some sleep, child. You look all in."

"Any mail for me?"

"You have no bills yet. Wait until you are called one of the best dressed women in New York and you feel you must live up to the reputation."

Fingering through the mail, Brenda picked out a square white envelope. "Yes, this is for you. I think it's a . . ." She stopped suddenly. "Oh, my dear, it's . . ."

But Karen nodded. "I know. It's an invitation to Philip's wedding on Wednesday." Her voice, that lovely voice of hers, was thin and flat and toneless. "Ever since I've known him I've known this would come. This—is it. This says in black and white I'll never belong to him." Her smile was weak. "I've been trying to prepare myself for it, Brenda."

Turning on tall black heels, she went to her room with the invitation to Philip's wedding in her hand.

Philip and Lilyan occupied a box on Monday night with a party which included Craig and Lilyan's father, Owen Kane.

Philip had no interest in the play. He was not seeing Karen, the actress, giving a finished performance which would make callous critics rush to their typewriters to praise her. He was not hearing words he had written in the summer brilliantly enacted. He was seeing Karen, the girl—the girl whose dislike of him had caused him to get a midnight train out of Baltimore and to spend one of the most miserable weeks of his life while preparations for his wedding were completed at last.

He glanced at Lilyan. His wife on Wednesday, his perfect, lovely wife. He could find no fault with her. She would be an exquisite bride and people would say, "You've always been lucky, Philip."

Feelings such as he had never had swept over him before. Looking at Karen in the red skiing outfit, he thought, "Why didn't I kiss you when I could because now I shall never kiss you? Why didn't I kiss you that night in my car when we were riding out to Tommy's? Your eyes didn't hate me that night! We were closer than we have ever been that night. For a moment in the flame of my cigarette lighter you almost loved me. But I put the light out, I put the light out!

At the conclusion of the second act, Lilyan turned to him.

"Why, Karen Mallare is wonderful, Philip! It's almost unbelievable that she's as inexperienced as you say she is. Some girls are born to be actresses. You should write a play just for her."

"That's an idea but she isn't ready for it." Write a play for Karen . . .

Owen Kane laughed. "She's what I call a really beautiful brunette! I don't know whether I should congratulate you on the play or on discovering Karen Mallare, Philip."

Philip said, "Thank Brenda. She's coached Karen every minute. She's playing down her role to let Karen shine."

Lilyan looked at him with a frown. So he called the young actress by her first name. Now she remembered he had called her by her first name the night at Helene Ward's. Then they had known each other before he had come to England . . .

Craig said nothing during the entire three acts. Philip looked at him several times. He was staring at the stage, frowning deeply, seemingly unconspicuous of everything except the play. Having attended innumerable plays with him over a period of years, Philip had never seen him so absorbed. But it was almost more than absorption. Tonight Craig, the strong, steady, physician, seemed emotionally disturbed.

Should he go to Karen again? He should. But did he dare go? Did he trust himself? He had to. He had to see her again for the last time before—Wednesday.

"Do you mind waiting a few minutes?" he asked Lilyan. "There's some one I've got to see. I won't be long." He glanced at Craig. "Are you and Brenda going to the Webb party?"

"I'm not sure." Craid said. "Perhaps. If we do, we'll see you there."

Again at the door of Karen's dressing room he was afraid. Philip Ashley, the successful playwright, afraid of a small slim girl with black hair and clear blue eyes!

He knocked. "It's Philip, Karen. May I come in?"

Wearing the white lace dress, she was standing in the dressing room surrounded by flowers when he asked to come in. Flowers from Tommy and Marion, from Bill and Roxanne. Bill and Roxanne should not have sent such expensive ones, she thought. Flowers from Jerry Forbes and Mary Catherine. Had Mary Catherine suggested them? Flowers from Craig and Philip . . .

She had to have a minute before she saw him, a minute of preparation to pull her excited mouth into a smile.

"Come in."

He smiled as he came forward and stood very tall above her. Again he could find no words because he loved her and because telling her he loved her were the only words he wanted to say.

But Karen said, "Philip, Brenda told me that it was you who helped me from the start. I didn't know. I've been so ashamed for what I said in Baltimore. The flowers you sent were lovely." The loveliest flowers were his. Keep them fresh and fragrant. But they would be dead on Wednesday. Flowers for Lilyan would be fresh and fragrant on Wednesday, her wedding day . . .

"That's why secrets are never any good and usually get you into trouble," he said.

What should he say? What had he come for? Just to see her, just to see her again . . . He smiled. "You're forgiven. I suppose I deserved it. You have what you want. Are you happy now? You're a great success, you know."

"I owe it to you and to Brenda. I could never have done it alone. I don't think people are ever a success—alone. Other people deserve a big part of the credit." Words. She was sick of polite words. Why didn't he go?

"I asked you if you were happy, Karen."

She felt trapped. Oh, why couldn't she say, "No. I'm miserable! It's you I want more than anything, Philip! You! I'd never walk on another stage if you wanted me to belong completely to you! Loving you is the only real thing. Footlights are phantom things. Only this, only you are real."

But she said, "Yes, I'm happy. You, too? You're going to be married on Wednesday."

"Yes, Wednesday. Will you be there?"

Why wouldn't she go? "I'm coming with Brenda." Dressed in new clothes she must buy tomorrow she would be there.

GIANT CLIPPER TO BE U. S. BID ON SKY LANES

Construction to Begin Soon on Merchant Marine Boat Dwarfing Others.

BALTIMORE —(UP)—Construction of a huge flying boat, dwarfing planes of the China Clipper type, will begin here soon at the Glenn L. Martin plants in a new step toward development of a United States merchant marine of the air.

Martin, pioneer airplane designer and builder and creator of the huge clippers now in service on transpacific and Caribbean sky lanes, revealed his plans for the new air monster as he launched his latest ship—the Soviet Clipper.

Details of design of the new ship have not yet been revealed. Its gross weight, it was learned however, will be 118,000 pounds —59 tons more than twice the weight of the China Clipper type flying boat now in service on Pan-American transpacific lines.

The new plane probably will be put in transatlantic passenger and freight service—possibly on a non-stop schedule between the United States and some Mediterrean port yet to be designated.

Year for Construction.

Its construction probably will take about a year, but its completion will mark a great advance in the new U. S. policy of developing huge flying boats for over-ocean pasenger service on a large scale. This policy first was urged in November by the Federal maritime commission in a report on over-ocean airline possibilities. The report argued against U. S. efforts to construct super-liners to compete with such luxury ships as Great Britain's Queen Mary, France's Normandie or Italy's Rex, and urged the alternative of intense efforts to expand trans-ocean flying boats capable of multiple passenger transport.

The new Clipper while dwarfing the Soviet Clipper, launched here recently for delivery to Russia, will incorporate many of that flying boat's technological improvements.

The Soviet Clipper, with a gross weight of 63,000 pounds and a wingspread of 157 feet, was the largest airplane ever built in this country. Powered by four 1,000 horsepower motors inserted in the forward edges of its wings, it has a flying range of between 3,500 and 4,000 miles—more than a 1,000 miles greater than the longest over-ocean route now in existence.

CHEMICAL MADE FROM INJURED YEAST CELLS GROWS NEW SKIN

INDIANAPOLIS —(AP)—A mysterious new chemical made by injured yeast cells, which heals terrific burns quickly and without scars, has been reported to the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

The chemical, a watery fluid grows fresh, normal skin over the burned areas, instead of the usual, tightly-drawn, disfiguring scar tissue. It gets the victims out of the hospital, the association was told, faster than any other remedy.

It is a by product of discovery of a new principle of tissue growth found at the Institution Divi Thomae, of Cincinnati. The discoveries were made by George Sperry Sperti, John R. Loofbourow, John C. Fardon, Andre Cueto and Elton Cook.

The burn remedy is one of several seemingly miraculous effects on growth, and the only one which has been applied to human beings. The treatment for burns has been tried for about a year at St. Mary's hospital in Cincinnati.

The chemical yeast is mixed with a salt solution and subjected to lethal ultra violet rays. The yeast cells are not killed immediately, but are injured continuously for at least an hour.

Then the liquid is filtered off and contains the unknown new chemical. Injury has to last some time for this chemical to be made. For example, if the cells are killed immediately, the healing stuff does not appear.

The chemical is non-living, because if the yeast liquid is boiled, the vapor collected from it still contains the healing principle. Ultra-violet light is not necessary. Any kind of prolonged injury will produce the same healing chemical.

Evidence that here is a new principle of nature is found in the fact that not only yeast, but other living cells if injured long enough will produce the growth stimulating chemicals. Each chemical is different, with power to cause rapid growth of new cells of the same kind that were destroyed.

EAR WATCHES FASHION HINT

But New Gadgets Provide Problem for Wearers.

CHICAGO—(AP)—With watches in her ears, the up-to-the-minute woman of fashion was ready today to make a timely start into 1938.

The newest time-keeping gadgets are ear-rings set with tiny watches. (How the wearer tells the time is the wearer's problem).

With these ear-watches in the novelty parade into the new year are an increasing number of ring-watches. Some are gold open-faced numbers. Others have a jewel cap.

SAM SNEAD SHOWS PROGRESS

Just a Punk Last Winter. He's Co-Favorite In Coast Meet This Year.

By HENRY McLEMORE

LOS ANGELES—(U.P.)—A year ago today one Sam Snead was looked upon by the golfing fraternity as little more than a hill-billy freak. It was generally believed Sam and his tremendous drives wouldn't last and that he soon would go rolling back into the fastnesses of his West Virginia hills with more speed than he showed in rolling out of them.

Today, on the eve of the Los Angeles Open tournament, one of the most important fixtures of the annual swing, Sam Snead is looked upon with awe by the greatest players of the game, and many of them concede him more than an even chance of becoming the greatest golfer who ever lived.

No player in history, not even Jones or Hagen or Sarazen, ever increased in statute in twelve months more than Snead, the one-time rural soda jerker. In one year he came from the environs of nowhere to a place as golf's most arresting figure. The answer is unbelievable power and unbelievable control of the same. From tournament to tournament he marched, getting home with a drive and five iron on holes that nearly all of his rivals had to play two woods. Sam wasn't the first of the super hitters, but he was the first super hitter who could place his Big Bertha shots where he wanted them.

THE great progress he has made in a year is reflected in the betting odds for the Los Angeles Open that starts tomorrow over the Griffith Park course. The bookmaking gentry has installed Sam and Harry Cooper as favorites, and when you get coupled with Cooper you are coupled with the most consistent shotmaker and scorer of them all.

Snead is liked above Horton Smith, Johnny Revolta, Henry Picard, Byron Nelson, and Jimmy Hines—men he hardly knew a year ago.

But for Cooper, Snead would stand out in the Los Angeles field like what the Hungarians so deftly term "La Thumb Sore." But nobody stands out above "Lighthorse Harry," the Chicago wizard. Today through the mails I received a sheet of figures from Freddie Corcoran, tournament manager for the P. G. A. The figures were an analysis of the leading professional scorers in 1937.

And what do you think Cooper's average was? Just a sloppy 71.58 for 78 rounds in 26 tournaments. That's all—just a fraction better than even fours in tournaments in which he encountered slow greens, fast greens, rain, blistering heat, baked fairways, cold, and snow. A study of those figures must have been a shock to Harry. I mean it must make a man wonder what sort of business he is in when he shoots better than perfect golf and yet winds up without winning a national title. Cooper has yet to break through in the open or P. G. A. tournaments.

SOMETHING always happens to balk his bid such as Tony Manero's magnificent final round at Baltusrol two years ago—a round achieved after Harry had accepted congratulations on what seemed a winning score.

Harry has nothing on Snead, though. Snead fired a 283 in the open last year, which was a score good enough to win all but one of the opens in history. Yet he had to be content with second money when Ralph Guldahl, the automobile salesman, came in with 281.

THE PASS MASTER: Slingin' Sam's life story.

Southwest Calls 'Em Baugh-ll Games

(Second In A Series)

By FELIX R. McKNIGHT

Copyright, 1938, (AP)

LEAN, gangling Sammy Baugh, who enrolled at Texas Christian university almost by accident, was just another bewildered freshman when the call for football went out in the fall of '33.

Varsity Coach Francis Schmidt squinted, shook his head and told Freshman Coach Leo Meyer that Baugh would never make a football player.

But Baugh scrapped his way into the first-string backfield and caught Coach Meyer's eye immediately with his deadly forward passing. Sammy won his freshman numeral and next fall reported for the varsity, with Leo Meyer there to guide him. Francis Schmidt, varsity coach, had resigned to go to Ohio State and Meyer had been moved up.

Sophomore Baugh was anything but a polished football star. In his first Southwest conference game against Arkansas he was guilty of the rankest error he ever pulled.

Down on his own goal line stood Baugh in the safety position as a Porker punt soared towards him. He though he was on his 10-yard line until he glanced down just before the punt arrived. He was so startled he dropped the punt. Arkansas recovered and scored.

There Were Unbelievers.

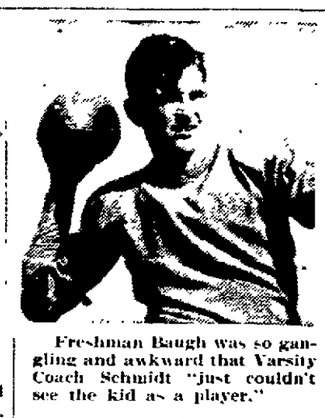
Not everyone was sold on Sammy after that soph year, although he did complete 64 and 161 passes for nine touchdowns. The grandstand coaches still were dubious about Baugh's greatness through the first three games of his junior year, but then he arrived.

Leo (Dutch) Meyer, Texas Christian football coach, was discoverer and best friend of Slingin' Sam Baugh.

His willowy arm began shooting passes that no defense could stop. He hurled 19 touchdown passes that year; reaped 1,322 yards from his 101 completions over and through bewildered enemies.

But his best efforts on one stormy afternoon just failed of carrying his Christians to the Rose Bowl. Forty-one times he heaved passes in the memorable 1935 battle with Southern Methodist, and 16 of them were good for 179 yards and a touchdown. Many times his bullets hit their marks that afternoon and bounded out of his mates' arms. Some said Slingin' Sam was pegging them too hard that day.

Little Bobby Wilson had a great day, however, and S. M. U. won the game, 20-14, and a Rose Bowl invitation. Texas Christian wasn't altogether slighted, for the Frogs moved into the Sugar Bowl and there Baugh put on one of the greatest kicking exhibitions ever seen in the south to lead his mates to a 3-2 victory over Louisiana State.



Freshman Baugh was so gangling and awkward that Varsity Coach Schmidt "just couldn't see the kid as a player."

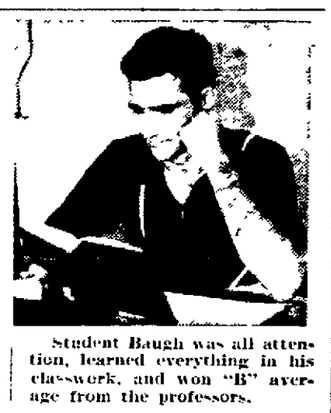
After that Sugar Bowl triumph Baugh confessed a sin. He admitted he had lost $3 on that game and further stated he always bet $3 against his own team. Why?

"Well, I figured that if we lost that disappointment wouldn't be so bad if I won the wager. And if we won I was always so glad I didn't care about losing that $3."

To Baugh went the credit for that great 1935 season—a season that saw Texas Christian win 12 of 13 games. Only that loss to Southern Methodist in the wildest game ever played in the Southwest marred the record.

The Whole Show.

Sammy Baugh was football itself to the southwest in his senior year. Injured at times, Sammy carried on and wound up the year by pitching the Christians to smashing triumph in the first Cotton Bowl game held at Dallas. On that wet New Yea s day he passed for two touchdowns and set up a field goal with another long heave to bury Marquette's Golden Avalanche.



Student Baugh was all attention, learned everything in his classwork, and won "B" average from the professors.

Football wasn't Sammy's only dish in college, however. He lettered three years in basketball and baseball. So well did he keep up the third-basing that first attracted Coach Meyer's attention to the rangy youngster, the St. Louis Cardinals got his name on one of their contracts after his collegiate days.

With that Cotton Bowl game on January 1, 1937, ended Baugh's college career. Another, just as great, was around the corner—professional baseball.

(Tomorrow: Sammy Baugh bobs up as the greatest "freshman" in professional ranks.)

METCALF'S Pure Oils are still very much involved in the City Class A league race.

They failed to gain any ground in the matches bowled at the Meder alleys last night, but they kept pace with the Miller Oldsmobiles, who are leading the race.

The Oilmen turned in another fine performance last night by winning scoring honors with a 3068 total, which was good for a clean sweep over the Roma Lunches, who pounded 2881 pins to the pits.

Metcalf's team, which rolled a string of 1068, 1023 and 977, was led by Dale Cleckner, who accounted for a 682 total, which included games of 223, 234 and 225. Winnie Cleckner produced a 636, Farrell Hipp a 606 and Art Hilborn's 605, he led the Oldsmobiles to a 2974 total and three victories over the Liederkranz club. Schmidt, 617, and Weber, 607, led the Liederkranz club to a 2861 total.

In the other match, the Meder Recreation quint, led by Pete Linster's 635 and Ted Ganyard's 614, rolled a 2808 total to take a pair of tilts from the Lumbermens Mutuals, who spilled 2752 pins.

Need Infield Help

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

NO championships can be claimed for Os' Vitt's questionable Indians unless something is done to correct the infield ills of 1937.

Hal Trosky at first and Lyn Lary, one of the very best shortstops in the American league, are definitely assigned for the 1938 campaign, but the occupants of the other two infield posts remain unidentified.

A youngster who answers to the name of Kenneth Keltner is regarded as a possibility at third base, but his lack of experience may result in his return to minor company for one more year.

Keltner comes to Cleveland well recommended as a master mechanic in the field, but there is some question about his ability to hit big league curves, although he did a pretty fair job of menacing American Association hurlers while laboring for Milwaukee last summer.

Unless a trade is consummated to strengthen the inner cordon, Sammy Hale will have to return to the hot corner and Roy Hughes will remain at second, with John Kroner the No. 1 replacement.

While they are not the worst infielders in the circuit, Hale, Hughes and Kroner are somewhat below the par Vitt demands for his performers at these important stations.

Cleveland is anxious to secure Eric McNair from the Red Sox, but Boston has shown no willingness to dispose of the infielder. Boston would be glad to accommodate Cleveland with an infielder in the person of Pinky Higgins, but all the Sox management requests in return is Mel Harder.

The Indians would take Higgins if McNair cannot be pried loose, but not at the expense of Harder, who could not be replaced very easily.

The Redskins might offer Denny Galehouse and a rookie to Boston in place of Harder, but Boston is interested only in Harder, it seems.

Anyway, we understand, Galehouse is being used as bait for Rollie Hemsley, who the Tribesmen would like to add to their catching staff.

It will be necessary to include pitchers in a deal with Boston, and Cleveland is not anxious to riddle its staff.

This business of making trades is not so easy, you'll have to admit.

WRONG HENRICH?

THE WRONG Henrich is in the major leagues, according to Tommy Henrich, who does his ball playing for the Yankees. In an Associated Press interview, Tommy, at his home in Massillon, said "I still think the wrong Henrich is in the majors."

"Eddie—he's 25 and lives at Mansfield—is as good a fielder as any American league first baseman. Eddie played a little ball a couple of years ago with Mansfield in the Ohio State league. His hitting isn't quite so good—he's a place-hitter—but I still think he's the one who should be in the majors."

That's a swell tribute to Eddie, who really was a sensation in the field while wearing Mansfield livery in the semi-pro Ohio league.

TRIS SPEAKER, who should have a pretty good idea as to the equipment an outfielder should possess, claims there are only two gardeners in the American league who can really toss a baseball. They are Joe DiMaggio and Cleveland's Julius Solters. Speaker probably never saw Tommy Henrich in action.

CASTS OF ICE PICTURE SUCCESSES TO SUPPORT SONJA IN CLEVELAND

CLEVELAND — Petite Sonja Henie, ten time world champion figure skater and film star, opens a five night run at Cleveland's million dollar arena, Sunday, Jan. 16, supported by her famous Hollywood Ice Revue of 100 skating stars.

Miss Henie's supporting cast is the same that appeared with her in her two motion picture successes, "Thin Ice", and "One In A Million", and all dance numbers in the production, which has played to complete sellouts in Chicago and Detroit, are under the direction of Harry Losee, dance director of 20th Century-Fox. Losee directed all the dance and musical numbers of the two Sonja Henie box office smashes, and also handled those for her new starring attraction "Happy Landing" which is about to be released.

Ever since she was a little girl in far away Norway, Sonja Henie dreamed of the time that she would be the head of the world's greatest ice skating show. Now that dream has come true.

Sonja and her Hollywood Ice Revue today rate as the world's greatest box office attraction. Thousands and thousands of ice skating enthusiasts in Chicago and surrounding territory started purchase of tickets three weeks in advance of her Windy City appearance, and set an all time attendance record for a seven day ice carnival.

The four score skaters accompanying Miss Henie are all young and ambitious. Primarily they are dancers first, then skaters. They were selected for their dancing ability, then their skill with the steel blades.

In keeping with Miss Henie's flair for the spectacular, the entire company travels from one ice palace to the next in huge 21-passenger transport planes — the most modern transportation available.

MAYFLOWER CLUB SETS NEW 'A' SCORING RECORD

Drops In 78 Points to Down Presbys In Church Loop Tilt—First M. E. Wins to Increase Lead.

THE Mayflower quintet is not pacing the Church Class A basketball league at the moment, but it served notice last night that it will be one of the leading title contenders from now on.

With every member of the club tallying at least two points the Mayflower outfit established a new season scoring record in the league at the Y. M. C. A. last night by smothering the United Presbyterians, 78 to 11.

Blank Opponents.

Led by the brilliant shooting of Boizet and Miles, the winners grabbed an overwhelming 20 to 0 lead in the opening stanza and were never in trouble. At half time they were leading 30 to 2, and as play was resumed in the final chapter they held a 56 to 5 advantage. Boizet dropped in 28 points and Miles 24 to set the individual pace. Swingler topped the losers with six.

The triumph enabled the Mayflower team to move into second place along with four other clubs.

While the Mayflower combine was setting the record, the league leading First M. E. cagers were walloping the Temple Emanuel machine 23 to 9 to increase their lead to two full games.

The pace-setters held the Temple team to a single goal in each of the quarters. The winners led, 6 to 2, in the opening period, 11 to 5, at the half, and went into the final stanza holding a 17 to 7 lead.

Brown paced the winners with eight points and Miltman and Kraus each scored three for the Temple club.

Defeats St. Pauls.

In the other games the Central M. E. defeated St. Paul's, 43 to 31, Episcopal downed the Park Avenue Baptist, 35 to 26, and First Lutheran edged St. John's, 44-37.

Catholic High Stages Rally

Defeats Friendly House All-Stars, 21 to 17.

St Peter's high school basketeers broke loose with a thrilling second half rally last night to down the Friendly House All-Stars, 21 to 17, on the Friendly House court. The winners trailed 8 to 4 at the half. Boyer led the St. Peter's team with six while Bush tallied eight for the losers.

WORKS HARD ON LINEUP

Murphy Experiments as Tygers Prepare For Friday's Tilt With Parma.

Endeavoring to find a dependable combination to carry the colors of Mansfield high school in the remaining court battles, Coach Russ Murphy is drilling his Tygers overtime this week.

Murphy has not been definitely set on the lineup since the season got under way, and although he has not experimented with many changes in games, he has shifted his combination freely in workouts.

The lineup appears definitely set in four positions. The occupant of the other berth is doubtful, but Murphy expects to have a fair idea as to whom will fall heir to it after this week-end.

ed by Freddy Lewis in the first.

The uncertain position was filled by Freddie Lewis in the first part of the season, but mid-season graduation has ended his service, and now it is up to Murphy to decide on his successor.

Tommy Scott has one of the forward berths cinched, Elmer Dials, apparently, is set at center and John Hallabrin and Jack Lyons are not likely to be replaced at the guards.

Murphy reports his charges in splendid condition for the 1938 opener with Parma of Cleveland at Mansfield high, Friday night. The Tygers will be seeking their fourth victory in six games in the Parma meeting.

Referee Gets Worst Of Grunt Arguments

REFEREE CLARENCE MILLER [illegible] Texas Silver Streak [illegible] Ruby Robert [illegible] Miller found [illegible] Wolf Straight [illegible] had won [illegible] started [illegible] After [illegible] the ring [illegible] and tried [illegible] to break [illegible] Davis [illegible] the second [illegible] all the illegal [illegible] as well as [illegible] Referee Miller [illegible] he tried to break it up. Finally Davis slipped Stratton into a semi-Indian death lock and applied the pressure by using the ropes as a foothold. Referee Miller tried and tried to break the grip, and when he finally succeeded Davis and Miller went 'round and round until Miller subdued the Silver Streak and awarded the decision to Stratton.

The semi-final bout was just as rough as the main go, and Miller absorbed the same amount of punishment. "Flash" Clifford of Texas, who was substituted for Joe Magner, had his heads full trying to defend himself from the onslaught of Gorgo Wagner of New York, aided with the aid of Referee Miller [illegible] and wrestlers.

Clifford took the first stanza by [illegible] Wagner about with both [illegible] in the air and [illegible] on Wagner's head. Wagner had slammed Clifford [illegible] 37 minutes before [illegible] to the flying mule [illegible] Clifford in less [illegible] of the second fall [illegible] and toe hold.

Wagner scored points on ending the affair in a similar manner but this time Referee Miller would break one of his illegal holds. Wagner would touch up the ref. Twelve times in 12 minutes Wagner tangled with Miller, who was forced to award the bout to Clifford.

Joe Wheeler of Cleveland and Joe Wolf of Columbus walloped out a 20 minute draw to open the show.

Jesse Seeks Reinstatement

By STEVE SNIDER

CHICAGO — (U.P.) — Jesse Owens has his fingers crossed Happiest man in town over a chance for reinstatement by the Amateur Athletic union, the sleek colored track star nevertheless prepared his application with considerable misgivings.

"I don't know how all this will turn out, but you can bet I'd be plenty glad to get back into amateur competition. I loved it," Owens said.

The National A. A. U. dropped him at the height of his Olympic fame and through a chance conversation with J. Lyman Bingham, Chicago A. A. U. offical, opened up possibility of his return when the sports world was just beginning to ask, "Whatever became of Jesse Owens?"

On Bingham's advice, Owens indicated he will file application for reinstatement with his home chapter of the A. A. U. at Cleveland He said he will appear in person Friday. The matter will be passed on to the national board of governors for final action.

"I used to think training for track competition was tough," Jesse grinned, "but playing saxophone in my dance band all night was a lot tougher.

"Sometimes we had to play until dawn and then travel to our stop for the next night."

That's how Jesse made the money he plans to use to back his new wholesale dry-cleaning plant in Cleveland He declared he did not accept a dime for use of his name in advertising.

"A chance for reinstatement was a greater surprise than the original ban," Owens said. "I'd about given up hope"

The former Ohio State star, who became the most important athletic figure in the 1936 Olympics by winning three individual sprint tiles and contributing to a fourth U. S. victory in the sprint relay, was suspended for refusing to compete in a post-Olympic exhibition in Sweden.

Jesse told the Chicago Daily News yesterday that he planned to return to Ohio State university next year to finish his course for a degree in physical education.

LUCAS STAR TOPS FIELD

Greulich Scores 71 Points In 5 Games to Lead County Cage Leaguers.

By CHARLES MARTIN

Tom Greulich is making a serious bid for the individual scoring championship in the Richland county basketball league.

The transfer student from John Marshall of Cleveland has tallied 71 points in five games to gain the lead over his teammate, Bob Crawford, who registered an even 50.

His total is phenomenal considering the fact that Lucas has no court on which to play his games or practice. The only time he and his club see a basket is on the nights of scheduled games.

The sharpshooting ace, who established a season game record recently when he dropped in 26 points as his club walloped Bellville, has accounted for 27 field goals and 17 charity tosses

Crawford has parted the strings with 20 goals and 10 free throws. Tolles of Union, Kenny Miller of Butler and Matt Hager of Ontario follow in that order. Tolles has 41, Milled 38 and Hagar 36.

Last year's individual championship was won by Glendon Miller, a brother of Kenny. His grand total was 131. one more point than Bob Bogantz, Ontario star, scored

"Big Bill" Davidson, 202-pound, 6 feet 2 inches center, has averaged eighteen points per game this season. His style of play has compared very favorably with that of Ward Powell, former Yellow-Jacket star.

The Baldwin-Wallace cage star is a three-letter man in football and at the completion of this year's athletic activities will have three letters in baseball, track and basketball. "Big Bill" was elected as a member of numerous "All-Ohio" football teams for two successive years.

Last night the gallant Galento leapt forward nimbly as a sperm whale, swished his mighty left onto the beckoning jaw of Charles Massera of Pittsburgh, and the crowd of 6,300 was half way out of the armory before they brought Charley around. Seldom was there a much bigger night in Orange, take it as a whole. The knockout of Massera in the third round was almost incidental. Everybody knew Tony was going to do that as soon as he shook down his afternoon load of spaghetti.

HENRICH 'RESTS UP'

MASSILLON — (AP) — A bad knee remedied by a surgeon's scalpel, 21-year-old Tom Henrich asserted today he'll "cover a lot more territory" this year in the New York Yankees' outfield—and incidentally "do better" in the batter's box.

Cartilage was removed from the sturdy youth's left knee in an operation at Baltimore last October and Henrich is now "resting up." "My knee kept me from stopping and starting suddenly" the hard-hitting outfielder disclosed

Although he earned a .320 batting average in 67 games last year Henrich said "I can do better this year. I was striking out on those fast ones but I have the range and I'm not scared any more" Pointing to his head he added smilingly, "it's all up there."

Roadwork constitutes his winter training menu—a hike-trot over the six miles to Canton and back He's fond of ice skating. Henrich added, "but I don't dare quite yet because of the leg"

ANNIE - LISTEN - I HEARD YOU YESTERDAY - YOU SAID NO ONE HAS A RIGHT TO ANY THING THAT HE DOESN'T EARN -
NO - I SAID NO ONE WHO IS ABLE TO WORK, HAS A RIGHT TO ANYTHING HE DOESN'T EARN - IF ONE IS REALLY SICK OR OLD OR HELPLESS, THAT'S DIFFERENT -
YES - OF COURSE - BUT I HEARD MORE - MRS. ALDEN - SHE'S DEPRIVING HERSELF TO HELP US -
HUH! IT'S WORSE'N THAT - AT THIS RATE TEN DAYS MORE AND SHE'LL BE A PAUPER - BUT WHY WORRY? YOU'LL BE O.K. TO TRAVEL BY THEN -
YES - AND ARE YOU FIGURING ON LEAVING ABOUT THAT TIME TOO --- WHEN FOOD RUNS OUT HERE?
ME? WHADDYUH THINK I AM? SHE WENT TO BAT FOR ME! WELL, I'M STICKIN' - I'VE GOT TO STICK, TO PROVE I WAS WORTH ALL SHE DID - SEE?
HM-M--- AND WHADDYUH THINK I AM? I'M STICKING FOR THE SAME REASON, MY LITTLE SPITFIRE -

SMITH HAS SENT A WIRE TO THE WAR DEPARTMENT FOR COL HALL TO FLY TO THREE-POINT TO SEE THE PLANS WELL, DUMAK?
NOW, GENTLEMEN, YOU SEE THAT YOU WERE WISE IN SELECTING ME TO PROCURE THE PLANS OF THIS NEW MYSTERY PLANE FOR VULGANIA
BUT... THE PLANS? WE THOUGHT.
PATIENCE, MY DEAR DITTRO! IT IS NOT WISE TO PRECIPITATE MATTERS! SOON THE PLANS WILL BE IN YOUR HANDS!
AND THEN WE SHALL PAY YO' WELL!
AHH, YES... THIS MONEY! BUT JUST NOW I WAS THINKING HOW I SHALL REPAY TAILSPIN TOMMY FOR ALL THE GRIEF HE HAS CAUSED ME!

RAILS BUOYED BY AGREEMENT TO HELP B. & O.

Recover Substantially After RFC Reveals Plans to Loan $8,000,000.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Stocks ran into profit realizing after an early rallying flourish in today's market.

Opening gains of fractions to 2 points were halved near the second hour. Activity dwindled.

Rails were the best performers, buoyed by agreement of the Reconstruction Finance Corp., subject to I. C. C. approval, to pull the Baltimore & Ohio out of a hole to the tune of about $8,000,000. Stocks and Bonds of this road recovered substantially.

Carrier Bonds generally improved. Commodities were uneven.

Traders who watch bank clearings for clues to business trends found little cheer in the Dun & Bradstreet figures for the week ended Wednesday. It was estimated the total for 22 cities was off 11.1 per cent from the corresponding 1937 period.

On the other side of the picture was the hopeful announcement of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. that it stands ready to invest $100,000,000 in low rental housing as soon as such investment is authorized by a bill recommended by New York's Governor Lehman.

FIGHTS CHARGE SISTER FILED

Los Angeles Man Denies He Forced Three of Family to Roam Nude In Hills.

was that one day last September he came home, announced that he was Jesus Christ, destroyed all the furniture and food in the house except a bag of walnuts, and took his elderly mother, his brother Joe, and Joe's wife Becky, away with him in his automobile.

They went into the rough canyon country 30 miles from the city, and there, according to the complaint, he held the family under his domination, forced them to live in a cave "like animals," while he ran about nude.

Mrs. Dorothy Silverman heard about it, she swore in her complaint, from the mother, Mrs. Rebecca Silverman, 62, who returned from the hills last Sunday.. It was alleged that Mark had Joe take the mother to town in the car; that Joe put her out a block from their home and she was so weak from the ordeal of four months in the wilderness that she had to crawl to the house on her hands and knees.

All these things Mark Silverman denied.

"We left Sept. 20 with some food and went up to take a habitation at this place for our health," he told the sheriff's men. He said the family went along voluntarily and enjoyed the stay.

"We don't believe in nudism or any other wrongdoing. But we do love nature and we have a right to live this way, so long as we break no laws."

Joe's wife agreed with him.

"We don't drink, smoke or use narcotics," she said. "I have never been so happy in my life as I was with Joe and Mark up in those hills."

The sheriff had Mark put in the psycopathic ward of the County General hospital, nevertheless, until he is arraigned tomorrow before Superior Judge Ben B. Lindsey for for a hearing on Monday.

BOSTON WOOL

BOSTON—(AP)—(U. S. Dept. of Agr.)—Demand for wool continued to drag yesterday in the Boston market.

Greasy shorn domestic wools were quiet and demands for woolen type wools has slackened compared with business during the latter part of December. Cables received by private concerns in Boston reported a further slight easing in wool prices of sales in Australia.

BULLETS PROFIT CHILDREN

LONDON—(U.P.)—Bullets buried on Salisbury Plain are bringing small fortunes to children. They are digging them up and selling them to dealers at Salisbury for a penny a pound. Millions of rounds of ammunition were fired on the Plain when soldiers were encamped there during the war.

retired $16,000 in bonds leaving the total bonded indebtedness of the department at $62,000. The debt payment in 1936 was $17,000.

Business conditions are reflected in the meter figures for the past year, the department having approximately 10,000 active meters at the end of 1937 as against a total of 9,700 at the close of the previous year.

The average daily water consumption during 1937 was approximately 3½ million gallons daily, while in 1936 Mansfield consumed an average of 3 million gallons daily, McMullen said.

Nearly 200 new customers were brought into the department last year by extensions of 17,386 feet of new mains, while in 1936 approximately 150 new customers were added with 4,400 feet of extensions.

During the year 419 new meters were set as compared to 214 in 1936. The department repaired 2,675 meters last year and 2,300 in 1936.

UPROAR AT END, NEW AUTO TITLE LAW IN EFFECT

Court Office Back to Normal as Clerks Become Familiar With Complex Act.

Three days of confusion at the office of Fred R. Zellner, county clerk of courts, tapered off into a semblance of order today as clerks familiarized themselves with the complex operation of the state's new automobile certificate of title law.

The law, which went into effect Monday in the county under the threat of an injunction action to test its legality, replaces the automobile bill of sale with a title certificate costing 75 cents. The law is expected to make it more difficult to import stolen cars into the state and to prevent fraud in the transfer of auto titles.

Hearing on the petition to halt operation of the new law will be held at 9 a. m. Friday.

Filed by Atty H. M. Rust of Mansfield, who brought the action as a taxpayer, the petition charges that the law is unconstitutional since it tends to place judicial authority in the hands of the clerk of courts.

Takes 15 Minutes.

During the three days the law has been in effect, 129 certificates of title have been issued at Zellner's office.

With at least 15 minutes required to issue each certificate, the auto registration staff at the clerk's office was increased to three with the employment of Mrs. Ruth Piper of Mansfield as a deputy clerk.

Although the law requires that the automobile dealer pay the cost of certification, Zellner said the fees, which may range from 75 cents to more than $2, are being collected from the applicant for transfer. An amendment to the law to place the cost with the purchaser is being considered, Zellner said.

The certificate is required only when the title to a motor vehicle changes hands, he added, and the present bills of sales held by motorists will be good until the holder purchases another car or truck.

The total cost of registering new cars purchased on the payment plan usually is about $1.60, including 75 for the original certificate of title, 75 cents for a copy, 30 cents to record a lien and 30 cents to cancel it.

In addition, the purchaser must obtain a memorandum certificate so that he can get license plates. The memorandum will cost 25 cents.

The state will receive 25 cents of each 75 collected for certificates, with 50 cents going to the county collecting the fee.

'BUSINESS' PICKS UP

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—The burglar police have dubbed "Sorority Sam" is finding things picking up. His series of burglaries from Kappa Alpha Theta sorority at the University of California at Los Angeles has netted him: On Nov. 19, 60 cents; Dec. 7, $21; last night, $32.

$2 Slaying Ends Their 'Career'

Genevieve Owens — Mrs. Ethel Sohl

—International Ill. News Photo.

The crime career of two would-be "gun molls," Genevieve Owens, 17, left, and Mrs. Ethel Sohl, 20, both of Newark, N. J., ends as they face charges of slaying a bus driver in a holdup. According to Mrs. Sohl, whose husband now is serving a prison term for forgery, the two virtually "studied" for a career of crime, going to see all the gangster movies, going to dances in the hope of meeting gangsters and playing with guns and attempting holdups. The two are pictured following arrest for the slaying which is said to have netted $2.

GUARD ETTING

Police Protect Movie Singer After Telephone Threat.

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—District attorney's investigators are providing constant protection for Ruth Etting, stage and screen singer, who reported a man telephoned her from New York that he planned to fly here, kill her, and commit suicide.

Miss Etting gave authorities the man's name, which was withheld, and the district attorney in New York was asked to question him.

RECORD SALES IN DIME STORES

Woolworth Business $304,775,189 For 1937, Company Says.

NEW YORK—(AP)—F. W. Woolworth company, nation-wide chain store concern, announced today its sales for December and 1937 broke all previous monthly and yearly records for volume.

December sales amounted to $47,181,651 against $45,505,958 in 1936, an increase of 3.7 per cent. Sales for the 12 months totaled $304,775,189 against $290,378,407, a gain of 4.9 per cent.

The company's November sales were 5.2 per cent ahead of November, 1936.

SENATE PASSES BILL FOR NEEDY

Approves $10,500,000 Fund For Relief; Immediate Aid Up to Governor.

from city officials to provide relief association, the senate not only ignored Governor Davey's wishes for a $7,500,000 equal matching program, but also slipped away from the leadership of Lieut. Gov. Paul P. Yoder, leader of the "hatchet men," who had favored 50-50 matching and had frowned upon any tax on utilities.

First indication that the senate would swing in line with the house in adopting a 1938 relief program came on the floor yesterday when Sen. Don R. Thomas, D., Montgomery, led a movement to discard Governor Davey's program.

The senate taxation committee had reported the governor's program out for passage, but Sen. Thomas' motion that the house sales tax bill, as subsequently passed by the senate, be substituted for the majority report was carried 21 to 11.

A few minutes later, an attempt to substitute the Huml utilities tax bill for the same bill as drastically amended by the taxation committee, was defeated, 14 to 16.

The strong showing made by Senator Thomas' bloc was the signal for a night session to consider the two house bills.

After the sales tax appropriation bill had been passed, the senate recessed for more than two hours during which time the legislative chamber practically was taken over by lobbyists for or against provisions of the utilities tax bill.

Upon resumption of business, Majority Floor Leader Keith Lawrence brought up the utilities tax measure and fought successfully to repeal a dollar for dollar matching amendment which had been inserted by the taxation committee.

An amendment to include the admissions tax, deleted from the bill by the taxation committee, also was adopted.

No attempt was made to restore the reductions in the tax on utilities and beer which had been voted in committee, urban members being willing to make some sacrifices to obtain passage of the bill

RAIL LINE GETS RFC LOAN OFFER

Will Get $8,223,000 If U. S. Commission Approves.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Reconstruction Finance corporation held out to the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad today an offer to lend it $8,223,000, providing the interstate commerce commission grants approval

Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the RFC made the offer last night, after a day of sharp declines in B. & O issues on the New York stock exchange.

Both common and preferred reached new 1937-38 lows of $7.75 and $8.50, respectively. Common closed at $8.12 a share, off $1.37 from Tuesday's close, and preferred finished at $10 a share, off $1.50.

NEW JUSTICE TO FACE SCRUTINY

land, who asked to step down from the bench Jan. 18 because of his age, found most senators in agreement that a "liberal" would be proposed. Four present justices—Brandies, Stone, Cardozo and Black—have been so classified by administration officials.

Thus, senators argued, a majority of the court could be expected to favor Roosevelt legislation, nullifying any further demand of administration leaders for a change in the judicial set-up.

Senator Logan (D-Ky) commented that the "general court situation, as it existed last year, has already been changed" by administration victories in important cases and by the earlier retirement of Justice Willis Van Devanter.

"I think that relieved any necessity for reviving the matter (the reorganization bill)," he said.

Mr. Roosevelt has given no indication that he intended to renew a campaign for the legislation, sidetracked by the senate last summer after nationwide debate.

Many names were mentioned in speculation over candidates to succeed Justice Sutherland, but all were pure guesses.

Heading the list was Solicitor General Stanley Reed, prominently mentioned for the vacancy to which Justice Black was named last summer.

Others high in the speculative list were Senators Minton (D-Ind) and Schwellenbach (D-Wash); former Senator Sam G. Bratton of New Mexico, now a federal circuit judge; Gov. Philip L. LaFollette of Wisconsin, and Gov. Frank Murphy of Michigan.

PICK 2 BOYS TO HEAD SENIOR HIGH 'STUDENT DAY' EXERCISES

Paul Smith, 18, and John Hallabrin, 17, seniors at Mansfield Senior high school, today were selected by popular vote to act as principal and assistant principal of the school, Thursday, Jan. 13, at a "student day" observance.

Students will take over complete operation of the school, acting as principal, assistant principal, office secretary, and faculty members for the one day, officials said.

Smith will take the place of Jesse Beer, principal, for the day, and Hallabrin will act as his assistant, replacing Herman D. Bishop.

Students who were candidates for the two highest school offices received the highest number of votes in the primaries held yesterday morning. Only senior students were eligible.

Those students who will act as faculty members for the day will be selected during private classroom elections to be held tomorrow. Each class will vote from its membership for a student to act as teacher.

Smith, who will act as principal, is president of the 12-B class, and the high school band, and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. P. F. Smith, 178 Carpenter road. Hallabrin, his assistant, was captain of the high school football team last year, and was named to the all-Ohio football team. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Hallabrin, 100 Gibson avenue.

Arrangements for the "all-student day" are in charge of a committee made up of teachers and students.

LAKES SHIPPING IN '37 CLOSE TO RECORD OF '29

All Vessels Are Pressed Into Service to Handle Huge Shipments In Season.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Great Lakes vessels moved more tonnage in 1937 than in any year since 1929, when the present record was set.

Ore, coal, stone and various other commodities moved through the Sault Saint Marie canal, the bottle neck between Lakes Superior and Huron, totaled 87,330,311 tons compared with 92,622,107 tons in 1929. The increase over last year was 17,801,511 tons.

With steel mills operating at peak capacity, ore movements led the increase, being 17,776,813 tons above 1936. The demand for ore was so insistent that vessel companies started their ships to the head of the lakes April 10—one of the earliest navigation openings on record.

All Vessels Busy.

Every vessel was pressed into service during the shipping season, which ended Dec. 10, and the cargo carried might have established a new tonnage record had not steel production tapered off in September and the demand for ore decreased.

Coal movements were 179,079 tons under 1936's record high of 45,407,135 tons, grain cargoes were down 500,000 tons, but stone shipments were 5,000,000 tons above the 12,000,000 tons carried in 1936.

Slackening of steel operations left 42,000,000 tons of ore at furnaces and Lake Erie docks at the end of 1937—highest on record.

As tonnage demands increased and shipping set new records between April and September, the Pittsburgh Steamship company contracted for four 610-foot bulk carriers—the first ships to be built on the Great Lakes since 1930. They will be completed next April.

Other lake navigation highlights. Sandusky loaded 22 boats with coal over a week-end . . . Two Harbors, Minn., loaded 13 ships over another week-end . . . 127 ships cleared Duluth from a Saturday to a Monday . . . the Harry Coulby of the interlake fleet carried 17,566 tons of ore from Allquez, Wis., to Indiana Harbor, Ind., passing the old mark of the Lemoyne of the Canadian Steamship company of 17,156 net tons of wheat . . . the automobile carrier South Park left Cleveland for Detroit, Feb. 10 . . . 40 ships were caught in the ice at the Straits of Mackinac and 60 at Whitefish bay above the Soo.

OKAY $973 IN ANIMAL CLAIMS

Commissioners Approve 42 In Last Quarter, Boosts 1937 Total to $3,858.

Richland county commissioners yesterday approved 42 animal claims totaling $973 for the last quarter of 1937, bringing total claims for the year to $3,858.

The amount, which covers loss of farm animals killed by dogs or other marauders was $9 more than the county paid in claims in 1936, records at the county auditor's office showed.

Payment of the last quarter claims will leave a balance of $1,647 in the kennel fund which will be increased immediately by receipts from 1938 dog tags. The largest individual claim during the final quarter was submitted by C. O. Robinson, Madison township farmer, and amounted to $119.

Funds received from the sale of dog tags in the county are used for the payment of claims, the salary of the dog warden and maintenance of the county pound at the fairgrounds.

From June, 1936, through June, 1937, the gold stock of the United States was increased to $12,318,000,000, the largest stock on record.

MOVES CATTLE IN DRY AREAS

Canada Takes 15,000 Head From Alberta Drought Sectors.

CALGARY, Alta.—(AP)—Between 12,000 and 15,000 head of cattle have been moved from Alberta drought areas this year under the federal feeder-freight program, it was estimated by livestock men here.

Under the plan the government refunds purchasers 50 per cent of all freight charges on cattle moved from the dry areas to other Alberta districts or outside the province.

RELIEF, FARM BUDGET SLASH DRAW PROTEST

Senators Also Hint They'll Oppose Roosevelt Request For New Veto Power.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Roosevelt's budget estimates for relief and farm benefits encountered congressional opposition today despite favorable Democratic reaction to his message as a whole.

Several influential senators, not yet ready to be quoted by name, also said they would oppose the president's requeste for power to veto individual items in appropriation bills. They characterizezd it as an invason of congressional authority over appropriations.

Complaints about the proposal to fix next year's relief expenditures at $1,000,000,000, compared to this year's total of $1,500,000,000, came from Senators LaFollette (Prog, Wis.) and Schwallenbach (D., Wash.)

Schwallenbach, who told the senate yesterday he would seek early action on his resolution to require that WPA give work to anyone unable to find private empoyment, said he would confer soon with Mr Roosevelt on the relief situation.

Funds Insufficient.

The Washington senator contended that WPA officials were unable to meet the present relief burden under an amendment requiring them to make the $1,500,000,000 fund last until next June 30.

Some farm senators protested against holding 1939 soil conservation funds to $440,000,000 —the amount allotted for this year — but Chairman Jones (D., Tex.) of the house agriculture committee expressed pleasure the amount had not been cut below that figure.

Many legislators voiced approval of Mr Roosevelt's proposal to cut $539,000,000 in total expenditures, even though some of them criticized specific curtailments.

Republicans in both senate and house criticized the budget, although Rep. Knutson, (R., Minn.) said Mr. Roosevelt "deserves full co-operation of congress in any effort he makes to bring federal expenditures somewhere near receipts."

Republican Leader McNary of the senate said it was "regrettable" that the president found it impossible to balance the budget." The deficit, under the figures submitted, would amount to $949,606,000.

House leaders, with the budget before them, cleared the way for immediate consideration of the appropriations bills carrying out its provisions.

FIEDLER HEADS CLEARING HOUSE

Association Elects, Points to $21,000,000 Gain In '37 Bank Transactions.

Henry R. Fiedler, assistant secretary and treasurer of the Farmers Savings and Trust company, was elected president of the Mansfield Clearing House association at the annual meeting yesterday afternoon at the Richland Trust company.

Other officers elected for 1938 were Carl A. Wolfarth, assistant cashier at the Citizens National Bank and Trust company, vice president, and H A. McElhaney of the Richland Trust company, secretary.

Meeting place of the association was changed from the Mansfield Savings Trust National bank to the rooms of the Richland Trust company. Member representatives of the city's four banks convene at 9 a m. every business day.

Enthusiastic over the $21,000,000 increase in bank clearings last year over 1936, W B Crider, retiring president of the association, said the figures indicate the rapid business strides the city has made during the past year and promise a brght outlook for 1938.

Total clearings for the year approximately $102,000,000, were the third highest in the city's history and only $7,000,000 under the all-time high in 1929.

The only other year which showed a higher total was 1928, when clearings amounted to $102,668,000

These Burglars Like Guns, Take 5 In 2 Places

Burglars who apparently had a yen for guns, broke into a store and home in Mansfield last night and carried off five firearms.

At the Jim Brown store, 70 North Foster street, four rifles valued at $45 were stolen It was the second burglary of the store in 10 days. Police were called to the establishment at 10 p m by a merchant policeman who said he found a third floor door at the head of a fire escape, broken open. Three radios hauled from the second to the third floor had been left at the door by the intruders who were apparently frightened away by the merchant policeman making his rounds.

Alonzo A Redmond, 151 Daisy street reported to police early today that his home had been entered last night and a 38 caliber revolver taken Police said that entrance was gained by breaking the glass in a rear door

HOSPITAL SETS UP NEW RULES FOR VISITORS OF WARD PATIENTS

A change in visiting regulations governing ward patients at Mansfield General hospital, effective Monday, was announced today by Dr A. O. Fonkalsrud, superintendent

The change in the rules will govern the number of visitors a patient will be allowed at one time and the length of time visitors will be allowed to stay in the wards Daily visiting hours will not be changed

Under the new regulations, each patient will be restricted to two visitors at a time for a period of not more than 15 minutes, Dr Fonkalsrud stated The present rules allow any number of visitors to see any patient between the hours of 2 and 4, and 7 and 8 p m, regular visiting hours Children under 12 years of age will not be admitted as visitors without special arrangement.

With the inaugurating of the new rules, a pass system will be used for all visitors Passes may be obtained at the main office, and no visitor will be admitted to the wards without a pass All passes must be returned to the office when the 15 minute period is up

The new rules will not affect patients in private rooms. Dr. Fonkalsrud said Visiting regulations in these rooms will remain the same

"The change in the ward visiting rules is being made mainly for the welfare of our patients ' Dr Fonkalsrud stated 'This step is being taken with the full approval the hospital medical staff, the board of directors, and the city health commissioner"

RUSH PLANS FOR GREATEST NAVY IN PEACETIME

High Officials Press Program to Make U. S. Force Second to None In World.

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—Navy department officials rushed plans today for construction of the greatest peacetime navy this country has ever possessed.

Spurred on by President Roosevelt, who has expressed alarm over the unsettled international situation and the growing disregard for treaty rights and international law, navy officials prepared plans for a naval construction program over and above the present "replacement" building program authorized in the Vinson-Trammell act.

Special Measure.

This additional construction will be asked in a supplemental bill to be introduced in congress within the next few days, navy officials said after a lengthy conference with President Roosevelt The bill will project the United States for the first time into the world rearmament race. It is calculated, officials said, to give this country a navy "second to none" when completed.

While officials declined to give definite information regarding plans, it was generally understood that the supplemental naval construction will ask for two or more additional airplane carriers, several heavy cruisers, light cruisers and submarines; some naval auxiliary vessels, and possibly additional battleships over and above the Washington and the North Carolina, now on the ways at the New York and Philadelphia navy yards and the two provided for in the 1938-39 budget estimates submitted to congress yesterday.

Officials were equally reticent concerning the amount of money likely to be involved in the "over and above" construction program. Unofficial estimates placed the figure at between $300,000,000 and $500,000,000, covering a period of years. It requires approximately three years to build a heavy cruiser, and nearly four years to construct a battleship of the 35,000 ton class

Mr Roosevelt did not wait for formal presentation of the regular budget estimates to congress before calling a White House conference of naval officials and congressmen interested in naval construction

Will He Bid $10.00 or $40.00?

Fletcher Valentine knows tobacco values...like so many other independent experts he smokes Luckies!

"I'VE bought 4,000,000 pounds of tobacco at auctions in the past ten years," says Mr. Valentine, independent buyer of Westfield, N. C., "and my bread and butter depends on making the right bids. That's why I have to know tobacco values.

"Now I've smoked Luckies ever since 1918, and the reason is, they suit my taste to a 'T'. Nobody knows better than we tobacco men that Luckies are made of the finest center-leaf tobacco."

Yes—and that isn't all...Luckies' exclusive process, "It's Toasted" takes out certain irritants naturally present in all tobacco—even the finest! The result is that you will find Luckies not only taste good but are easy on your throat.

Surely, independent experts like Mr. Valentine make good judges of cigarettes ... Sworn records show that, among independent tobacco experts, Luckies have twice as many exclusive smokers as have all other cigarettes combined!

THURSDAY, JANUARY 6, 1938.

Mayor Hunter's 6-Point Program.

PRESENTATION of Mayor Hunter's 6-point program, intended to direct thought toward some of Mansfield's needs, evidences broad understanding of present conditions in this city and sensible outlook regarding things that need be done.

It is only natural that no new subjects are touched on in the mayor's program, all of the objectives mentioned being along lines that have already been given serious consideration.

Past experience, however, has shown that all real accomplishments must be preceded by periods of discussion, preparation and planning, and that a definite start must be made on each project before anything can come of it.

Continuation of water development and revamping of the city sewer system, for instance, are logical requirements of a growing city and must be regarded as a part of Mansfield's long-range program of progress.

Adequate fire department housing, modernized equipment and increased personnel in both the fire and police departments are also matters that should be moved toward as quickly as necessary financing will permit.

Opposition to mortgage revenue bonds on the water system is regarded as a sound position by many who have studied this subject.

The long-needed viaduct to connect the west with the northwest section of Mansfield is again brought to public notice by the new mayor, although a method of financing the project is still missing.

Calling attention to Mansfield's need for a public auditorium is also timely—although such an accomplishment by expenditure of public funds appears quite unlikely.

But, as Mayor Hunter told council: "We never get anything unless we say and do something about it."

Extends Period for Law Violation.

ON A NUMBER of occasions, during the past year, The News-Journal has had opportunity to commend Chief of Police Bates for improvement in the efficiency in the police department and for his apparent determination to carry law enforcement activities to the full extent supported by expressed public opinion.

It would appear, however, that in his vacillating policy regarding enforcement of the ordinance making it illegal for night clubs and other liquor sales places to operate after 1 a. m., or after midnight Saturday, Chief Bates is assuming to decide which laws shall be enforced and which are to be ignored.

After announcement on Friday, Dec. 3, that the 1 a. m. closing ordinance would be enforced immediately, except in cases of night clubs which had contracts for orchestras or floor shows, Chief Bates on Monday, Dec. 6, granted a 30-day extension of non-enforcement, to avoid "discrimination" against other liquor dealers.

Later, it will be recalled, 34 liquor permit holders petitioned council to amend the present ordinance so as to set aside the 1 a. m. closing time and the midnight closing on Saturday, and fix the time at 2:30 a. m., as provided in regulations of the state liquor board.

This petition was referred to a council committee which has not yet reported.

When the 30-day extension of non-enforcement was announced on Dec. 6, Chief Bates was quoted as saying: "After that the lid goes on and stays on."

Now, it appears, the chief has decided to permit violation of the ordinance to continue until the council committee has made its report in the matter of the liquor dealers' petition to change the ordinance.

Meanwhile Judge C. J. Anderson, whose work in the juvenile court links closely with delinquency problems, has argued strongly against the proposed changes in the ordinance, and Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, of municipal court, recommends that "the proposed amendment should fail, and that if any action should be taken by council that it should be in further curtailment of the privileges now existing."

It has been indicated by Russell D. Porch, chairman of council's special committee to consider changing the closing ordinance, that he is interested in hearing from citizens regarding their views on this subject. The other members of this committee are Councilmen Lester Hunter and James E. Crum.

Until this committee is ready to report, however, there is no apparent reason why Mansfield's chief of police should feel that he has authority to announce that the present law is NOT to be enforced.

Another Supreme Court Vacancy.

RETIREMENT of Justice George Sutherland from the United States Supreme Court bench serves to again bring that high tribunal to the public attention that it does not ordinarily receive—and to cause a disturbed feeling as to President Roosevelt's selection of a successor.

There would be no such feeling of perturbation, of course, had it not been for the President's amazing action in choosing Hugo L. Black to fill the vacancy created last June by the retirement of Justice Van Devanter, and the senate's hasty confirmation of Black's appointment without taking time to investigate his previous Ku Klux Klan affiliation.

Having passed the age of 75 years, and after 15 years of service as a Supreme Court justice, it is entirely understandable that Mr. Sutherland should prefer to retire to less arduous duties—and in doing so he also acts in accord with a quite generally expressed belief that 75 is a suitable retirement age limit for Supreme Court justices.

It may well be hoped by the people of the United States that, as a result of his experience in the Hugo Black episode, President Roosevelt will exercise greater care in choosing a successor to Justice Sutherland, and also that the senate will be less inclined to precipitate action in the matter of confirmation, in the event of questioning the capability or suitability of Mr. Roosevelt's selection.

Politics being what it is, it is none too early for Ohio to step out with mention of a presidential impossibility.

With the population increase among Indians, it is commented that the pedestrian is now the "vanishing American."

Billion-Dollar Deficit, Mounting Debt.

FOR those inclined to sober thought, the mounting total of federal indebtedness cannot be other than startling and depressing.

President Roosevelt's budget message, sent to congress yesterday, estimated a net deficit of more than a billion dollars for the current fiscal year and revealed that the public debt would reach a peak of $38,528,200,000 by June 30, 1939.

Ordinary minds are unable to grasp the significance of such stupendous figures, or to realize the rapid plunge toward national bankruptcy that is being made as a result of visionary governmental schemes that have been foisted upon this country under the luring guise of a "New Deal."

Much dependence for increased governmental revenues, for reduction of unemployment and for more wide-spread distribution of the fruits of labor, is placed on business and industry—yet the processes of government under the Roosevelt regime have been such as to retard and render impotent the very elements on which national prosperity is largely dependent.

It should be quite generally understood by now that THERE CAN NEVER BE ENOUGH PUBLIC MONEY OR PUBLIC JOBS TO SUPPLY THE DEMAND!

Keeping Step

By LESLIE EICHEL

No Balanced Budget Possible Now.

OF COURSE, the federal budget will remain unbalanced. It is impossible to balance it at the moment without destroying the government. The hungry must have food. This column a few days ago said if was evident that President Roosevelt was determined to balance the budget. He was—and is. But factors and events have overtaken him. He explained his position in his message to congress—which, incidentally was one of the most effective appeals to the people at large that he ever has made.

Here are the two heaviest expenditures which the administration will have to meet:

Relief this year will require not less than two billion dollars, in the belief of many. (This column has been remarking that for months.) That two billion dollars will require heavier taxation, more borrowing. The borrowing depends on how long business will remain at low depths.

Then there is the enlarged naval program. It is the factor which President Roosevelt himself determines. He evidently has decided to double the naval building plan presented last year.

That may mean an additional two billion dollars to the two billion dollars already outlined. All that will be inflationary, but nonproductive; thus, in the end, it will be severely deflationary.

This huge sum, however, will not be spent in one year—but in probably five years. American shipbuilding plants are not geared to construct warships at the rapid pace which we like to believe.

The naval building program already is behind.

As a relief measure, it will be of little aid immediately, or ever. Money for warship building usually finds its way into narrow channels. It has none of the spreadout of house building or road construction or the erection of power dams.

Chief beneficiaries would be steel and electrical plants.

ARMAMENT MONEY

A peculiarly apt comment concerning a similar situation in England appears in The New Statesman and Nation, London which says:

"Sir Thomas Inskip's speech to the National Union of Manufacturers (equivalent to the American Manufacturers' association) nearly explains the government's optimism concerning the prospects of a slump. It appears that the expenditure on re-armament has not yet nearly reached its peak, and that the minister for the co-ordination of defense now expects the original estimate of 7,500 million dollars spread over five years to be exceeded by 750 million dollars—giving an annual expenditure of 1,650 million dollars instead of the 1,500 million dollars previously announced.

"Moreover, it is clear from the course of government borrowing that not a great deal of this vast appropriation has yet been spent. It looks as if re-armament is proceeding more slowly than was planned at the outset. Accordingly, the government relies on expanding expenditure on this form of 'public works' to offset any tendency toward general economic depression that may manifest itself for some time to come.

"Armaments are, indeed, from this particular standpoint, the ideal form of public works. They do not compete in any way with private enterprise; they have the great advantage—from the capitalist point of view—of being entirely unproductive; they provide interest on money which might otherwise not be able to earn any; and they are just as good as any more useful works both in providing indirect employment and in distributing purchasing power. Digging holes and filling them up again would, of course, possess most of the same advantages—or paying the unemployed higher incomes out of borrowed money. But that would never do."

"If He Ask for Bread, Will You Give Him a Stone?"

(An open letter to American educators. Dedicated to Father Benjamin Bowling of U. C. L. A.)

I'M WRITING this on Christmas Eve. The Christ Child's day . . . the day that sanctifies the birth and need of every child. And beside me as I write—challenging file on file—there wait the letters of ten thousand other children—the voice of Young America, pleading, protesting.

A puzzling and pathetic problem, these modern children. Born in a land and a time of unprecedented power and pampering privilege, still they feel cheated, bewildered and lost. Disillusioned, discouraged, before they have even started life. Why?

They want . . . what do they want? They do not know. And so today, I write to you who should be able to discover and supply their need—to the educators of America. And, as I write, the thought of another young spirit comes back to me.

He had no privileges, that other Boy—no power that men could see. Rags on His slender shoulders . . . scars on His work-worn hands . . . and on His face, already the shadow of the cross. Yet poor though He was and obscure, He had that which is beyond all riches—He had understanding. Understanding of the heart of youth—that eager heart for which wealth is never enough . . . whose hunger may only be filled with dreams and adventures, Beauty and Truth.

Yes, He knew their need. And now, standing on the mountain, looking down into the massed misery of their faces, He told them what He knew. So they longed to be filled and warmed? But why, then, did they turn to perishable things and posing prattlers for help? There was no satisfaction in such possessions and people. Only emptiness . . . death in life . . .

He stopped . . . stilled, for a moment, by the clutch of their despair. Then again His voice rang out, in anger and pitying love—"WHAT MAN IS THERE," He cried, "WHO IF HIS SON ASK FOR BREAD WILL GIVE HIM A STONE?"

Two thousand years since that question was asked . . . yet still the children cry for bread . . . and still they are given a stone.

So eagerly they come, those children, in their young faith and fury . . . demanding those things which youth has always demanded and for which the world stands in such desperate need . . . something to believe in, something to fight for, something to lift life out of its savage senseless darkness into the living light!

So trustfully they come—to you, who should understand and provide. And all around you are the things they seek . . . the glorious riddles, the splendid challenges. Miracles in every test tube, crusades on every front page, visions and Holy Grails in every economics course and industrial graph, for those who have the seeing eye and the willing heart.

So trustfully they come—and so easily you might conserve that trust, preserve that faith and fury. You need only be a little exalted by Beauty, a little inflamed by Truth. And, to your everlasting credit be it said, some of you are exalted and inflamed . . . some of you do feed young hunger with the radiant stuff of life. But you others—conventional and complacent, lacking curiosity or courage—with what do YOU answer the need of Youth?

WITH A STONE!

They ask for bread . . . they clamor for ecstacies and revelations . . . they are born burning, beating with the pulse of Creation, eager to take their proud part in the great plan—and what do they receive?

Not marvels and missions, covenants and crusades—

But cynicism and sophistry, lifeless facts, sterile statistics—

THE DEATH-DEALING DUST OF MODERN MATERIALISM.

Timely Editorial

Father To Son.

Nothing could be finer in the relationship between father and son, or father and daughter, than implanting in the younger mind the ideals that have developed in the older. They are bound to grow with the growth of the young mind and to strengthen with its strength. Youth looks to its elders for guidance more than one would guess who sees only its frivolous and irresponsible side. Although youth may fret and rebel under the administration of precept upon precept, it is strongly influenced by example. And it appreciates the respect of its elders.

And that is what made notable the invitation of the Rotary club to sons and daughters of members Tuesday. It was an eloquent gesture that is sure to be followed by gratifying results. In a very few years these younger people will have charge of public affairs, will have many responsibilities thrust upon them. To treat them now as equals is one of the best ways of preparing them to acquit themselves creditably. —Newark Advocate.

Spy Scares Accompany War Talk, Not Serious

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON — Every time the war germ is incipiently in the atmosphere folk begin to develop the international spy complex.

That seems to be one of the premonitory symptoms of coming conflict.

Old World peoples everlastingly are in the habit of suspecting a spy lurking in one dark corner or another. The United States, however, normally is not spy-conscious. When we start to worrying as to the spy threat it is a disagreeably suggestive indication. The right way to deal with it is to laugh at it. Unfortunately, at just the time it ought to be laughed at most loudly it invariably is taken seriously.

THE CASE OF ONE MAN

Not long ago an ex-officer in the American navy (I've forgotten his name) was convicted of selling to Japan information concerning Uncle Sam's sea strength, and he was sent to the penitentiary; still more recently his application for parole was denied.

His defense was that all he did was to supply the mikado with certain facts that anyone (not alone an expert, but an ordinary layman, who had done a little studying) was familiar with.

I do not doubt that this was a perfectly truthful statement.

I am convinced that no American naval officer doubts it, either. Indeed, I have heard several of them say so.

SECRET? NO!

There is, available to anyone who chooses to buy it (it's rather expensive), a well-known, thoroughly-kept-up-to-date serial of volumes known as "Jane's Fighting Ships," which contains all the information that this American naval ex-officer possibly could purvey to any maritime power.

Our naval ex-officer may have assimilated it more thoroughly than the average individual could have done, and then sold it to Japan as a uniquely well-digested article.

But secret stuff? No!

Perhaps it was not particularly ethical. Perhaps Japan could charge that he was making a sale by misrepresentation of his ware's true value.

But international spying? Again—no!

FOR CIVILIANS

I do not believe that any American army or navy officer is afraid of foreign spies.

Those who fear spies are nonprofessionals.

Each overseas' embassy and legation in Washington has its army and navy attache. Our own war and navy departments cooperate with them. As fellow-professionals they like to exchange ideas with them.

Spy scares are between civilians.

IMPENDING ATTACK? NO!

On the Pacific coast our navy is advertised as having been, of late, exceptionally active.

Because of a prospect of an impending Japanese invasion?

Believe me, no naval officer is so crazy as to anticipate a Japanese attack on the United States, from Vancouver to San Diego. We may be doing a little police work against foreign poaching. That is the limit. We want to protect our fishing grounds. That is all.

* * *

MOSTLY FICTION?

This spy business is 99.5 per cent fiction.

The other .5 per cent does not amount to anything.

And yet the unimportant .5 per cent gets more publicity than the other 99.5 per cent.

Health Advice

THERE IS no doubt that great strides have been made in the handling of many childhood problems. Mothers have all the latest information and know how to apply it. Left-handedness in a child always distressed the parents. It was thought to be a sign of some nervous disorder and regarded as a serious drawback to the youngster. But the ideas about left-handedness have completely changed. It is no longer looked upon as a handicap or something of which to be ashamed. The experts now advise against the correction of any tendency to use the left hand.

Please get over the belief that a left-handed child will be seriously handicapped in his adult life. Writing, bricklaying, painting, manicuring, carpentering and plumbing can be performed equally well by a left-handed individual. If a child insists on using his left hand do not worry over it. Above all, never force him to use his right hand when he seems to be more at east with the left.

A left-handed child who is made to use his right hand becomes irritable, nervous, and sooner or later shows some sign of strain to the nervous system. Many cases of stammering, stuttering and other speech defects can be traced to forcing the use of the right hand when the other should be used. This is now the accepted fact. As soon as this effort at compulsion is stopped, the nervous symptoms disappear and the child begins to make great strides in his work.

30 Per Cent Left-Handed.

It has been estimated that more than 30 per cent of the world's population are born left-handed. Of this number about one-quarter ultimately develop the use of the right hand mut are always more comfortable when using the left.

The individual who is equally skilled in his use of both hands has an advantage over the rest of us. It is a real asset. The one who possesses this ability makes excellent use of it in his daily work. It is of tremendous value to a surgeon.

For mothers who are concerned because their children are left-handed, let me assure them that it is by no means an oddity or a disgrace. Such a child is just as skillful as his brother and sister who are right-handed. Some of the most brilliant men in history were left-handed, and in no way did it interfere with their careers.

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

To Be a Jonah.

To say of a person that he is a Jonah is to brand him a hoodoo, a bringer of hard luck. The word owes this sense to an incident in the Bible.

In the Book of Jonah, it is related how the prophet Jonah, disobeying a mandate of God, fled on a ship for Tarshih.

During the voyage, a terrific storm came up. Superstitiously looking among them for its cause, the sailors, on learning that Jonah had "fled from the presence of the Lord" thought they had it. They threw Jonah over board, and "the sea ceased from her raging."

After many adventures, Jonah finally completed his errand, which is another story; but he had given up a word which will stay in our language forever to indicate a harbinger of ill fortune.

McIntyre's New York Day by Day

THE season's dramatic shocker, "Of Mice and Men," is not doing the turn-away business that the critical raves, following the first night, might indicate. Almost to a man, the reviewers, in dazzling rhetorical nip-ups, hailed it as the opus of the season.

The plot is one of pathological horror, concerning the strange bond between two itinerant ranch workers. One promises a dying relative to take care of a dim-witted pervert who delights in carrying about and talking to a dead mouse that he has squeezed to death.

In the end the degenerate garrotes a tartish maid of the bunkhouse and his mentor, to save him from a posse, puts a bullet through his head. But it is not so much the ghastly theme that repels but the quite unnecessary exploiting of unprintable epithets.

New York is funny that way. Wicked and overly-sophisticated as it is reputed to be, it will shrink more than the cross-roads from flagrant licentiousness in theatrical fare. Such plays as "Of Mice and Men" appeal almost solely to the out-of-town trade.

Many regard George Abbott as the most astute producer of the day. He has a flop now and then, but generally his successes are spectacular. A capable actor himself, he is superb in directing. Few in the theater are so little known and self-effacing. Indeed, self-effacement is distinguishing the Rialto lately. There is none with the Ziegfeld and Belasco flair for erupting headlines. Two producers are without press agents or desire to string their names in lights. Still left, of course, is Billy Rose, who does not share in such modesty.

The bounding Elsa Maxwell, at least when on display in the public restaurants, is a study in perpetual gip. Despite her rather dumpy size, she suggests a humming bird in flitting from table to table. She will not stay put, and one wonders when she eats her food. But adore her, as many do, or just be amused, she is unique in a topsy-turvy world. For years, despite depressions, recessions and market crashes, she has ridden the crest by leading society around by its figurative nose in the enjoyment of childish games. In her solitude, like Puck, she must laugh at what fools these mortals be!

There is a topic for one of David Grayson's gentle essays in the people we see so often in New York that we become quite familiar, but whose names we never know. A fellow at the Grand Central Information Bureau, for instance, has long been a friend. During lulls at his job, we have exchanged minor confidences. I know all about his family and his ambitions without knowing his name or exactly where he lives, which somehow makes our contact more interesting. He believes, I gather, that I have some connection with the station. I suppose there are at least 50 around town whose acquaintance is on the same basis.

New York restaurateurs have had trouble since prohibition repeal weeding out the bad egg waiters left over from the speak-easy era. Quite naturally, most of them acquired a philosophy of get it today for tomorrow we may be closed. They learned many sly gestures in gypping that have had to be uprooted in a day of more leisurely dining and careful check adding. The waiter on his toes today in such places as the Stork Club can be thoroughly honest and make around $80 a week. The calling is attracting a surprising number of college men, who will stay with it until economic adjustments are more pronounced.

Thingumbobs: Will Lengel is now in charge of all of Theodore Dreiser's literary affairs . . . Steve Hannagan, who put Miami Beach on the map, is now ballyhooing Porto Rico . . . Major Bowes has a sister who is a talented pianist and poet . . . Gene Fowler is dramatizing the Associated Press for the movies.

City life vignette: His hat blew out of the bus window spang into the middle of the busy avenue. But when he got out to retrieve it his arms were so full of bundles he just kicked it to the curb, where a passer-by placed it on his head and sent him merrily on his way.

NEW DIET FAD MAKES HIT IN MOVIE COLONY

4-Day Regimen Gives Stars 'More Than They Can Eat' But Takes Off Pounds.

HOLLYWOOD —(INS)— Hollywood's favorite diet of the moment is a four-day regimen which, the stars say, gives them "more than they can eat," yet takes off from three to ten pounds in its brief span.

Literally sweeping the town, it is credited to Margot Grahame with making her figure "just right" for the role of a curvaceous New Orleans belle in "The Buccaneer."

Not recommended to those prone to acid conditions or high blood pressure, it consists of

First day: Breakfast, one-half glass of tomato juice and one-half of sauerkraut juice. One hour later, orange juice and a cup of black coffee. Lunch, two lamb chops, two raw tomatoes and one-half grapefruit. Dinner, one-half pound steak, lettuce and tomato salad, mineral oil dressing.

Second day: Same breakfast, orange juice and black coffee one hour later. Luncheon, two lamb chops, two raw tomatoes and one-half grapefruit. Dinner same as luncheon, but substitute spinach for the tomatoes

Third day: Same breakfast, orange juice and black coffee one hour later. Lunch, one-half pound steak, one tomato and one-half grapefruit. Dinner, two scrambled eggs, spinach, two saltines and one teaspoon of jelly.

Fourth day Same breakfast, orange juice and black coffee one hour later. Lunch, one-half broiled chicken, two saltines, spinach and one-half grapefruit.

This is accompanied by two teaspoonfuls of Bassolax compound, or Saraka, taken every night on retiring, and citrate of magnesia, taken in the morning of the fifth day.

Most physicians recommend that the diet start on Tuesday and end on Friday. Franciska Gaal and Isa Miranda, exotic European importations, are among those using it at present, and it has now superseded all other diets as the stars' quick way of taking off excess poundage when necessary.

Heavy Tax Drain Forces Duke to Sell Vast Estate

LONDON— (INS) — Impoverished by two inheritance taxes since 1928, the Duke of Richmond has decided to sell his estate in Scotland for $4 000,000.

Ten years ago the Dukedom of Richmond was one of the wealthiest in England but an inheritance tax of about $5,000,000 in 1928 when the seventh Duke of Richmond died, followed by a similar tax in 1935 at the death of the eighth Duke, has caused the present Duke to attempt to recoup some of his losses

The estate, comprised of a castle, six villages, and 90,000 acres of land covers 140 square miles in Morayshire and Banffshire in the Scottish Highlands. It has been bought by the Commissioners of Crown Lands, who look upon the investment as a going concern.

Last year the Duke sold his Huntley estate of over 12,000 acres in Aberdeenshire, but he has retained for his own use 30,000 acres of deer forest and grouse moors at Glenfiddich.

The property in Morayshire and Banffshire is estimated to have a gross revenue of $250,000 a year, containing 450 farms and seven grouse moors where as many as 6,000 brace of grouse have been shot in a single season

'37 CONGRESS ENDED FLOOD CONTROL FIGHT

$24,000,000 Program Wins Approval; War Referendum Backed by Ohioans.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The spectacular 1937 congressional year climaxed successfully a long fight for government-financed flood control on the Ohio river.

A $24,877,000 program was approved to include projects in 15 communities in Ohio, West Virginia, Kentucky, Illinois and Indiana—local governments to pay only for property rights.

Flood control advocates were so encouraged they planned to seek additional millions in the next session and estimated that between $60,000,000 and $80,000,000 was needed to protect other communities or expand existing projects.

Reps. James G. Polk, Herbert S Bigelow, Joseph A. Dixon and Thomas A. Jenkins of Ohio, pointing to inadequate protection in the January record flood, planned cooperation for new appropriations.

Rep. Robert A. Secrest of Ohio prepared to revive in the House Flood Control committee agitation for a broad national plan to permit construction of a reservoir system to bottle up headwaters during rainy periods $800,000,000 Program.

Due to budgetary limitations. President Roosevelt asked and received deference by the Flood Control committee on a national program drawn by army engineers estimated to cost $800,000,000. With local contributions for property rights, the total cost would approximate a billion dollars. Indications were it would be presented to the president again early in 1938 to be placed on the list of major legislation ahead.

Aside from controversies over President Roosevelt's court reorganization plan, the unobtrusive campaign in behalf of the Ludlow Peace Resolution provided one of the most dramatic events of the year in the eyes of Ohio's delegation.

Rep. Louis Ludlow (D-Indiana), former Ohio newsparer correspondent, sponsored the resolution proposing a constitutional amendment to require a popular vote before congress could declare war except in event of invasion.

With Rep. William A. Ashbrook of Ohio, Ludlow campaigned for 218 signatures to a petition to take the resolution from committee and compel house consideration.

Rep. Dudley A. White of Ohio, was the 218th signer. Other Ohioans were Ashbrook, Polk, Brooks Fletcher, Anthony A. Fleger, Martin L. Sweeney, Bigelow, Robert Crosser, Arthur W. Aleshire, Michael J. Kirwan, Harold G. Mosier, Frank C. Kniffin, John McSweeney, Jenkins, Frank L. Kloeb, John F. Hunter and Lawrence E. Imhoff.

Farm, labor and tax legislation attracted active interest of the Ohio delegation, now numbering 23 due to resignation of Kloeb to accept a northern Ohio district federal judgeship.

Their Films Were Year's Best

LUISE RAINER

SPENCER TRACY

RONALD COLEMAN

PAUL MUNI

With the announcement today by Film Daily of the "ten best" pictures of 1937 as chosen by movie critics and reviewers of the United States, Paul Muni again carries off honors, by having played the male lead in the first two pictures on the list, "The Life of Emile Zola" and "The Good Earth." In the latter picture Luise Rainer, dark-eyed Hungarian actress, was co-starred with him, bringing together the two players who won the Motion Picture Academy awards for best performances of the 1936 season Spencer Tracy, who turned in several notable performances last year, played the lead in "Captains Courageous," which was third on the list of "ten best," and Ronald Colman was the star of "Lost Horizon," fourth on the list, and one of the most pretentiously filmed pictures in years

* * * * *

'LIFE OF EMILE ZOLA' YEAR'S BEST PICTURE, FILM CRITICS SAY

"The Life of Emile Zola," Warner Brothers film, was No. 1 picture of 1937, in the opinion of leading cinema critics and reviewers over the United States, according to the annual "ten best pictures" symposium conducted by Film Daily.

Results of the nation-wide poll of critics was made public today by the trade magazine, with the Paul Muni picture heading the list. The other nine in the order in which they ranked were: "The Good Earth," "Captains Courageous," "Lost Horizon," "A Star Is Born," "Romeo and Juliet," "Stage Door," "Dead End," "Winterset" and "The Awful Truth." All of them have been shown in Mansfield except "Stage Door."

Both "Zola" and "Good Earth" topped the previous high number of votes cast for a single picture —116, which was polled last year by "Mutiny On The Bounty." Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer is represented by three pictures, United Artists, RKO Radio and Columbia by two each and Warner Brothers by one, on the list of "ten best."

Only three major players appear in any two pictures on the list. Paul Muni played the lead in "Zola" and "Good Earth", Margo was in "Lost Horizon" and "Winterset" and Adolphe Menjou had important character roles in "A Star Is Born" and "Stage Door."

While most of the "ten best" were also box office hits, four of the biggest hits were not included. They were "Lloyds of London" (which topped the honorable mention list with 151 votes), "Theodora Goes Wild," "One In A Million" and "Come and Get It." The pictures that made the most money for producers and exhibitors, the Shirley Temple films, did not rank high on the critics' lists, "Heidi" receiving only 41 votes and "Wee Willie Winkie" 14.

Perhaps the most significant sidelight of the 1937 symposium is found in the fact that no less than seven of the ten productions represent adaptations of stage plays, which would indicate that in the opinion of critics at least, the screen is still dependent upon the legitimate theater for its more important vehicles. The "No. 1 picture" however, was written especially for the screen.

Change In Plane's Design Help For Speed.

PORTLAND — (AP) — How a trifling change in an airplane's design may mean money was illustrated on the Northwest lines.

Technicians got the idea of placing the loop antenna essential to the radio compass, inside the nose of the plane instead of over or under the fuselage. The planes gained two miles an hour.

Translated into money, this means a $10,000 saving annually.

THEATER

FROM Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios comes the announcement of lead assignment for five new pictures. One of the most interesting is that young Tyrone Power has been selected for the romantic lead opposite Norma Shearer in the forthcoming "Marie Antoinette" . . . And what a cast for "Test Pilot"! There is Clark Gable, Myrna Loy Spencer Tracy and Lionel Barrymore. . . . James Stewart and Maureen O'Sullivan will support Wallace Beery. . . . "Snooks" the baby character made famous by Fannie Brice on the radio will screen-debut in her picture, "Everybody Sing." . . . Only the old timers will get a kick out of the announcement that Francis X Bushman and Betty Blythe have been chosen for the leads in "Life In Sometown, U. S. A", a minature to be made by Cary Wilson. Both were high powered stars a decade ago.

Romantic Comedy.

Leslie Howard, distinguished star of stage and screen, and Joan Blondell, who played wise cracking gold diggers only a short time ago, are teamed in "Stand-In," the United Artists production which the Ohio offers the last half of the week starting today. Howard, who has a fine flair for comedy despite his dramatic characterizations, plays a timid hero from Wall Street who learns first hand that Hollywood is a mad house. Steering him on a straight course is the only level head he encounters in the film city, that of the little stand-in for a temperamental star, the role protrayed by Miss Blondell.

"High Flyers."

Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey top the cast of "High Flyers," a comedy-romance opening at the Madison theater Friday. The film revolves around the efforts of an aviator and a side-show barker to solve a series of mysterious thefts and at the same time avoid arrest themselves. The comedians are seen as operators of an airplane concession who unwittingly steal a police airplane and smuggle some jewels, believing that they have been hired to transport newspaper photographs. Supporting the stars are Lupe Velez, Marjorie Lord, Jack Carson and Paul Harvey.

"Little Lord Fauntleroy."

Freddie Bartholomew comes to the silver screen of the Majestic theater Friday in a re-issue of "Little Lord Fauntleroy." The film will play through Saturday. Supporting the juvenile star will be Dolores Costello Barrymore and Guy Kibbee. The second feature on the double bill will be the western, "Outlaws of the Prairie," co-starring Charles Starrett and Donald Grayson, the singing cowboy. "Action for Slander," with Clive Brook and Clark Gable in "Call of the Wild," play through today.

"Exiled to Shanghai."

Wallace Ford and June Travis are co-featured in "Exiled in Shanghai," coming to the Ritz theater Friday for two days. The story exposes a fly-by-night promotion company which exploits the possibilities of a news-reel television set with no actual foundation on fact. Ford stumbles onto the real secret and the many complications which lie in the way of making the discovery a commercial success provides interesting entertainment. Buck Jones in "Black Aces," will be the No. 2 feature. The film casts Jones as a peaceful rancher who suddenly sets out to capture a gang of rustlers known as the Black Aces.

INQUIRIES INTO STATE, COUNTY AFFAIRS MANY

Year of 1937 Saw Probes In Various Phases of Ohio, Local Governments.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Investigations provided Ohioans with disclosures of sub-strata state and county affairs almost month by month in 1937.

Chief of the inquiries was Atty. Gen. Herbert S. Duffy's investigation seeking any evidence of corruption in the state parole system. It is expected to continue at least six more months.

Gov. Martin L. Davey ordered the inquiry July 9 following published reports that numerous convicts had paid fees to obtain their release from prison.

The governor reorganized the state parole board, replacing three of its four members.

Grand Jury Called.

After preliminary investigation by the attorney general, a special grand jury was impaneled in Columbus Nov. 22. Two persons have been indicted for perjury, and other indictments of a different nature are expected after Jan. 1.

Grand juries will be impaneled in other couties to "pursue leads" which the attorney general has obtained.

The principal witness has been Arch W. Naylor of Canton, a friend of Leland S. Dougan of Columbus, who was replaced by Governor Davey as chairman of the parole board.

Late in December, the Ohio senate authorized a committee to investigate reports of "legalized graft" in state departments. A similar investigation attempt during the summer failed when Governor Davey vetoed $50,000 to finance the inquiry.

The senate voted the investigation following the airing of reports in both houses of the general assembly that firms paid "considerations" to obtain state contracts.

Governor Davey said he wasn't concerned by the inquiry.

He retained a committee of college professors to investigate published reports of irregularities in the state highway department, particularly in the letting of paving contracts.

Six persons were indicted in Lawrence county early in the year on charges of ballot tempering

Four, including Pearl S. Pratt, county auditor, were tried, but the jury disagreed. Secretary of State William J. Kennedy, who teamed with Attorney General Duffy in the inquiry, said the four would be placed on trial again after Jan. 1. No trials have been set for two others who testified for the state.

In another case, Edward T. Carney, acting chief of the state division of securities, was indicted on a charge of accepting a bribe for qualifying a stock issue. He was acquitted and resigned.

TAX REVENUES CLIMB IN 1937

$4,200,000,000 Greater Than In Depression Year of '32, Estimators Report.

CHICAGO—(U.P.)—Total tax revenues of all governmental subdivisions in the United States were approximately $4,200,000,000 more in 1937 than in 1932, the pit of the depression, the federation of tax administrators has estimated.

The federation estimated all tax revenues at $12,500,000,000 in 1937, of which the federal government collected $5,500,000,000, the state governments $2,500,000,000, and the local governments $4,500,000,000.

The federation, a "secretariat" for the National Association of Tax Administrators and the National Tobacco Tax conference which was set up as a research center for the two groups, reported a constant increase in the federal government's percentage of total revenues during the last five years

Officials pointed out, however, that the federal government has been returning increasingly large amounts to the states and local governments during the same period for emergency activities, such as relief.

Local governments which received no funds from the federal government in 1932 received 24.5 per cent of the federal government's money in 1935, and state funds from the federal government mounted from 12.5 per cent in 1932 to 22.2 per cent in 1935.

PLANE GETS JOB OF HAULING GOLD

BROWNSVILLE, Tex —(AP)— Burros are too expensive for Earl P. Halliburton, Oklahoma millionaire, so he has turned to airplanes to transport his gold in Honduras.

His gold mine is located near Tegucigalpa, Honduras, and can be reached only by burro or plane. The gold concentrate, 3,000 pounds daily, has to be transported to the village.

"It is a bookkeeping fact that we can transport the gold by plane for less than it costs to use the slow burro," Halliburton said.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Caused by Tired Kidneys

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

BAPTISTS MEET IN CITY FRIDAY

Nine Churches In District Will Be Represented at Semi-Annual Meeting.

About 60 representatives from nine Baptist churches of the Mansfield Baptist association will attend the semi-annual dinner-meeting of the association Friday evening at the Park Avenue Baptist church.

Three leaders in Baptist church work, Dr. Coe Hayne of New York, newspaperman, author and publicist for the Northern Baptist convention; Dr. Paul Judson Morris, director of promotion for the Ohio Baptist convention, and George Hunt, Kiowa Indian of Oklahoma, will address the meeting.

"Better Churches" will be the subject to be considered by the association. A dinner will be served at 6:30 p. m. and will be followed by the speaking program. Mrs. O. P. Wervey is chairman of the dinner committee, and Rev. Hayes M. Braker, pastor of the Baptist church association moderator, will preside.

Churches in the association are Mansfield, Galion, Bucyrus, Shelby, Pleasant Valley, Loudonville, Newville, Vermillion, and Perrysville.

FAR EAST WAR HELPS THIEVES

Darkness In Air Raids Helps Looters in Tokyo.

TOKYO—(U.P.)—Light-control in Tokyo, during recent air-raid maneuvers, has put a barrier between the home office and the war office.

During the maneuvers, all street lights were turned out, windows were shrouded and complete darkness prevailed. Taking advantage of the situation, thieves stole 38 iron manhole covers from a street under construction.

The home office presented a bill to the war office. It came back with the statement that, under wartime conditions, the home office would be responsible for its own property.

Sons Ordered to Help Mother or Serve Jail Term

Two brothers accused of failing to provide for the support of their mother were convicted in municipal court yesterday on charges of abandonment of a destitute and aged woman and were given suspended jail sentences on condition that they contribute to her support.

Woodrow Howell, 22, and his brother, Manley Howell, 25, each were ordered to pay a specified amount to their mother each month or serve 180-day jail terms The elder Howell was ordered to contribute $4 a month and the younger $3 a month.

The charges were filed against them by Mrs Catherine Howell, 62, of 117 Lida street, who said she had three other children to support on a $23 a month pension received by her husband who was unable to work.

The sons both married, told the court they had been forced to quit school at the age of 10 and go to work to support themselves, and that they had turned their wages over to their parents until they had established their own homes when they felt their responsibility should cease

7 NEW FICTION BOOKS ADDED BY PUBLIC LIBRARY

Story of Fugitive Englishman's Adventures One of Most Interesting.

Seven new fiction books will go into circulation from the Mansfield Public library Monday with a new story by Francis Brett Young one of the most interesting. It is "They Seek A Country" and tells of a fugitive Englishman in South Africa more than 100 years ago.

The story follows his adventures when he joins a family of Boers and through his marriage to a daughter of the family. The fight with Kaffirs, the struggle to find a home in the wilderness, are all told so vividly as to make John Oakley and Lisbet Prinsloo seem very human and real.

Gladys Bronwyn Stern's new book "Oleander River," is a charming love story set in Italy. The heroine, Gillian Coverley, is loved by Piers Rae, while her heart belongs to his father, Dominic Rae. The author depicts all the characters very clearly except Dominic, who remains something of an enigma until the end of the book.

"White Mule" by William Carlos Williams realistically tells the story of Joe Stecher's struggle to advance himself in America. A printer from Alsace, he has the Old World pride in craftsmanship. His wife, Gurlie, is discontented with family responsibilites and continually goads him to make more money. The style of writing is fresh and typically American.

Other New Fiction.

The other four fiction books are "Out Of This Nettle" by Gates; "The Tide Always Rises," Payne; "Dead Man Leading," Pritchett; "Parade of The Empty Boots," by Seltzer.

Teaching Eskimos in a government school at Wainwright, Alaska, involved much more than the three R's, as Elizabeth Chabot Forrest and her husband learned when they understook the work. In "Daylight Moon," Mrs. Forrest tells of their varied experiences as doctor, minister, judge, and storekeeper—just to mention a few of their duties, and of the natives they learned to love.

Three books dealing with phases of the current world dilemma are "History of the Far East" by George Nye Steiger; "Japan in American Public Opinion" by Eleanor Tupper and George E. McReynolds; and "Europe in Arms" by Liddell Hart. The "History of the Far East" provides the reader with a background for understanding the present Asiatic situation.

"Japan in American Public Opinion" is a study of the changing attitudes of the American people toward the Japanese people and their governmental policies from 1900 to the present. "Europe in Arms" deals with the rearmament in Europe, taking up each country separately. An interesting chapter on the war in Spain was added after the book had come from the presses.

The non-fiction volumes, added this week, include:

"Materials Handbook," Brady; "Rewinding and Connecting Alternating Current Motors," Braymer and Roe; "Water Treatment and Purification," Ryan; "Pure Bred Dogs," American Kennel club; "Encyclopedia of Antiques," Bond; "Indian Blankets and Their Makers," James; "Five Hundred Self-Portraits," Goldscheider; "Studies in Medieval Painting," Berenson; "Fifty One Neglected Lyrics," edited by Boggs; "Great Trade Route," Hneffer; "Harbor Nights," Klemmer, "Miniature Photography," Simon, and "Anatole France," Dargan.

Books For Children

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

Stories about foreign children and foreign lands, have a great appeal for young Americans. Two of the newest ones are "Abont Ricco" by Eleanore Hubbard Wilson and "Sean and Sheela" by Marian King.

Ricco is eight and Italian. His home is in a little village south of Naples, and he is the happiest little boy in all Italy because it is his birthday, and he is going to have a festa.

Sean and Sheela are brother and sister, living in present-day Ireland. They, too, are happy, but for quite a different reason. The thatcher is coming to mend the roof, and that means stories!

Both of these books have many unusually attractive colored illustrations, and if any birthdays are looming up in the near future, they would make nice gifts.

11 Pupils From City In Ashland Forensic Tourney

Eleven students of the Senior high school will go to Ashland Saturday where they will take part in a speech tournament to be conducted by the National Forensic League at Ashland high school.

The contest will begin at 9 a. m., with four rounds of competition for each contestant. Between 75 and 100 students from six high schools in the state will take part in the competition.

The contest will be for declamation, and participants will be entered in three different groups. Mansfield contestants and the classifications in which they will be entered are: Esther Jenkins, Grace House, Betty Reese, and Miriam Jenkins, humorous declamation; Helen Sternbaum, Alice Mathews, Willis Lewis and Vivian Miller, dramatic declamation, and Robert Sheriff, Audry Morton and June Adams, oratorical declamation.

Accompanying the students will be Earl L. Heasley, public speaking instructor at the school.

High schools to be represented in the contest include Clyde, Wadsworth, Shelby, Ashland, Painesville, and Mansfield.

Hunt Bandit Killers With $25,000 Postoffice Loot

POLICE BLOCK ROADS TO HALT DESPERADOES

Kentucky Messenger Slain as Gunmen Open Fire; One Held as Hostage Freed.

GUTHRIE, Ky.—(U.P.)—A blockade was extended along the Tennessee-Kentucky border by federal agents and police today in their hunt for three bandits who killed a postoffice messenger late yesterday and escaped with $25,000 in cash.

The bandits, all masked, drove up to the curb as a group of armed guards left the Guthrie postoffice, en route with the money to a train for removal to the federal reserve bank at Louisville.

Even before their car came to a stop, one of the men opened fire with a machine gun. Arthur Simms, colored messenger, was shot through the head and fell dead. Police Chief C. M. Sherrod was wounded seriously in the legs.

Leap From Car.

Two of the bandits jumped from the car, seized the money sack and ordered a third guard, Assistant Postmaster Guy Askew, into their machine. They drove toward Hopkinsville, 20 miles northeast of Guthrie.

Askew was released uninjured a mile from the holdup scene.

He said he had been unable to learn anything regarding identities of the men.

"They forced me to lie down in the back seat as we drove off," he said.

Sheriff C. M. Mausfield, Todd county, said the bandit machine carried an Illinois license plate in front and a cardboard license in the rear.

Planned Robbery.

"The swiftness and efficiency with which the robbery was carried out indicated that it was planned carefully," he said. "The men apparently had inside information about shipment of funds."

Postal inspectors and police joined forces, he said, in extending a cordon around the area. The officers have been given orders to shoot to kill.

Outlines Aims of Youth Movement In Rural Areas

About 50 members of the Richland County Youth council, a branch organization of the county farm bureau, heard the objectives of the youth movement outlined by L. S. Warbington, state farm bureau organizer from Columbus, in a talk last night at North Lake park pavilion.

"An organization such as this helps young men and women from rural communities to know each other better and to start thinking together," he said. "It uncovers talent and brings to the fore the real leaders in the community—the men and women who will mold the world's thinking tomorrow.

"Youth should attempt to solve the social and economic ills of today. You youngsters are just as important as anybody else and certainly you should be able to do a better job of running the world's affairs than those who are in power today, many of whom seem helpless in the face of growing problems," he declared.

The meeting was in charge of Walter Berry of Lucas, president of the council.

Leo Berry, of Lucas headed a discussion of the importance of cooperative work in welding the interests of rural communities into a progressive unit.

Organized about six months ago, the county youth council now has a membership of nearly 100 farm boys and girls of high school age or older. Council advisors are Harry E. Miller, field man for the county farm bureau, and Rev. R. A. Hall, pastor of the Ontario Community church.

OHIO SHOWS GAIN

Employment for '37 Up 7 Per Cent Despite Recession.

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Despite the year-end business recession, Ohio entered 1938 with an employment gain of approximately 7 per cent over a year ago, a bulletin issued today by the bureau of business research at Ohio State university, showed.

The gain was attributed by Miss Vivay Boothe, acting bureau director, to a general reduction of industrial inventories, added confidence in banking and sounder stock prices.

Knudsen Called to Unemployment Inquiry

Up and Down THE STREET

The most over-worked chap during the holidays was Dan Cupid, reports from Senior high and John Simpson junior high indicate. Earl Heasley, dramatic instructor at Senior high, returned from the vacation a benedict, having been married Christmas day; one of the most popular women teachers at John Simpson, came back wearing an attractive and significant diamond ring; and two of the men teachers at the same school reluctantly admitted that they had given diamond rings to their One-and-Only for Christmas gifts.

Winchellism: What well-known Mansfielder, taking advantage of his wife's vacation out of the city, has planned a little party for tonight and sent out invitations that read something like this: "Sh-s-s— the wife is out of town—high class poker party (?) for gentlemen — Thursday night at —— avenue —Sh-s-s-s?" The prospective host's friends got a bigger laugh when they saw the invitations decorated in pretzels and beer mugs. They all know he's a dyed-in-the-wool teetotaler and he never plays poker.

The most complete doll house in Mansfield — probably in this section of the state—doesn't belong to a little girl, but to two girls who outgrew their dolls long ago. Donna and Marlene Wierman, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Wierman, 1090 Park avenue west, have a perfectly scaled doll house, elaborately furnished, which was built more than 14 years ago. But they bring it out of its place in the attic each Christmas and light it up. Its kitchen, breakfast nook, dining room, living room, sun porch, two bedrooms and bath are as completely equipped—even to a tiny piece of sheet music on the baby grand piano—as any well furnished modern home. Some of the bric-a-brac is almost microscopic in size. This year it was partially refurnished, new bed spreads, curtains, draperies and rugs being added.

There's a 1938 version of those dainty glass slippers that Cinderella wore, according to Mansfield shoe merchants returning from the annual mid-winter convention in Chicago. Because dancing ladies of 1938 may wear lovely glass slippers to the ball—only of course, there is no guarantee of a prince following her. The newest evening slippers are made of spun glass on fabric and in colors, and they have all of the virtues and none of the weaknesses of glass. You may spill ink on them, or step in the mud, but a damp cloth will make them as spotless as a glass desk top. On the other hand, if you trip and fall, or some awkward man sets a hefty hoof on them, they won't break or chip. Looks like Cinderella really started something.

GETS MOVIES

Legion to See Alley Pictures of Panay Bombing.

The Norman Alley news reel pictures of the bombing and sinking of the Panay, will have a private showing in Mansfield on Jan. 19, for members of the American Legion.

The Alley film, which was shown to a senate investigating commitee, in Washington, has been obtained by Commander L. A. Cook of McVey post, and will be shown to members only at the next regular meeting, according to an announcement made at the first January meeting last night. The Alley film has not been booked as yet by any Mansfield theater.

A turkey dinner will precede the Jan. 19 meeting, and new members will be initiated.

Last night Commander Cook gave members a report on the work of the Three Muster-Cheers during December, and the financial report of the Community Christmas Fund, as prepared by Treasurer Paul Eliot.

FIGHTS AWARD FOR STATE JOB

Ohio Industrialist Seeks To Block $100,000 Contract; Charges 'Favoritism.'

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)— The Ohio supreme court today was asked to compel the state highway department to cancel an order for more than $100,000 worth of guard rail and award the contract to the low bidder.

In a petition filed by William S. Ferguson, president of the Armor-Steel Roadguard Co., Inc., Cleveland, the court was asked to force Highway Director John Jaster, jr., to cancel the contract for 250,000 feet of rail granted to the General Wheelbarrow company, Cleveland, and give the order to the Armor-Steel company.

Ferguson charged his company was lowest of 22 bidders with a bid of 35 cents a foot. The successful bidder's price was 45 cents a foot, the petition contended.

Ferguson also charged the state had ordered 50,000 feet of 14 gauge guard rail from a firm which didn't bid on this type of rail. He said the firm, the National Traffic Guard Co., Inc., was awarded the contract at the same price it quoted for a heavier, more expensive rail.

Had the department accepted the low bid, Ferguson contended, the state would have saved $36,400 on the transaction.

"At the proper time we are going to divulge information as to how and why these contracts were let," Ferguson said. "We stand ready to prove that the reason we did not get the contract is because we are not one of the favored bidders."

FALL, ILL AND 'BROKE' AT 76, SAYS HE HASN'T LONG TO LIVE

EL PASO, Tex.—(AP)—Albert B. Fall, gaunt of face and hair bleached a snowy white, gazed upon life today with bitter resignation.

"I'll never get out of bed—I haven't long to live," he said in one of his rare interviews at William Beaumont General hospital.

Prison, illness and trouble have been Fall's lot since the October day of 1924 when the United States supreme court set aside his lease of the teapot dome naval oil reserve to Harry F. Sinclair, and branded him "a faithless public servant."

The former secretary of the interior enters 1938 actually in better health than he has experienced in several years.

Yet the fire of the once lusty political leader long since has died—only the black cigars, which distinguished him in the United States senate, remind of other days.

His long thin hair and drooping mustache are as white as the sheets of the bed to which he has been destined the past decade. His face, once strong and tanned by a life under the southwestern sun, is pallid and frosted with a snowy stubble.

He is 76, yet looks far older.

Fall still clugs bitterly to his assertion that the $100,000 paid him in the teapot dome case was a loan, not a bribe.

"I've paid my debt to society. I owe it nothing now," he said.

"I guess the government will hound us to the grave," Mrs. Fall said.

In contrast to Fall's monastic life, she appears often in public.

Fall said he preferred to remain in the Army hospital, not only because of its protective seclusion, but because he is "broke" and can obtain free medical care. His service in the Spanish-American war entitles him to that.

ADD DIRECTORS

Farmers Savings Stockholders Add 3 New Ones to Board.

Three new members were added to the board of directors of the Farmers Savings & Trust company at the annual meeting of stockholders yesterday afternoon at the offices of the institution.

New directors elected were Roger A. Black, William A. Springer and P. M. Eliot. Members of the board re-elected to serve for another year were H. S. Black, J. H. Finefrock, C. F. Harding, R. D. Isaly, C. E. Nail, P. H. Ober, J. M. Dickson, C. H. Keating, W. McE. Weldon.

Immediately following the meeting, directors of the bank met and re-elected all the present officers of the institution. They are H. S. Black, president; C. H. Keating, vice president; W. McE. Weldon, vice president and counsel; P. M. Eliot, secretary-treasurer and trust officer; H. R. Fiedler, assistant secretary-treasurer, and D. A. Eckert, assistant trust officer.

BUYS THEATER BUILDING, LOT

Purchase of Ritz Announced By Bernstein, Operator of Show.

The Ritz theater building and lot was purchased yesterday by Sol Bernstein, operator of the theater, who earlier in the week announced the purchase of property on North Walnut street, in the rear of the building.

Bernstein bought the movie house and lot from Mrs. Jane Harding. The lot is 40 feet wide on North Main street, with a depth of 100 feet. With the 55 foot frontage on North Walnut street, bought earlier, Bernestein now owns the entire strip from Main street through to Walnut. He plans to start the work of enlarging the theater in the near future.

The Ritz building was constructed 12 years ago. The first operator was the late Harry "Tim" Roberts.

SALES INCREASE

Salada Tea Credits Newspaper Ads For Part of 1937 Gains.

NEW YORK Newspaper advertising was listed as one of the major reasons for a sizeable increase in the sales of Salada tea in 1937 over the preceding year by Gerald R. Larkin, president of the Salada company, at a sales convention of the company here.

"Effective newspaper advertising and a policy of maintaining fine quality in our product is the combination which is primarily responsible for the success of the company during the year," he said. "Newspaper advertising is really the backbone of our sales effort around which all other advertising and merchandising activities are built," he added.

SENATE GROUP SEEKS REMEDY FOR RECESSION

General Motors Head Will Be Quizzed on Causes for Drop In Industrial Operation.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON —(UP)— William S. Knudsen, president of General Motors Corp., told the Senate Unemployment investigating committee today that last Novembers drop in automobile sales was "The most severe in history" and "Entirely beyond our control."

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—The senate committee studying unemployment and relief called William S. Knudsen, president of the General Motors corporation, to testify today.

Turning to industrial leaders for advice on the problem of idleness aggravated by the business recession, the committee sought from Knudsen his ideas on the causes of unemployment and possible remedies. It has listened for two days to testimony by government officials

Knudsen's testimony will be particularly interesting to the committee because the General Motors corporation on Jan. 1 laid off 30,000 employes and placed the remaining 205,000 workers on a three-day work week. When the discharges were ordered, Knudsen explained they were caused by the business recession.

May Bare Views.

Knudsen also may give the industry's view on the "conferencetable" planning of production proposed informally this week by President Roosevelt.

The committee believes that unemployment compensation now available in 22 states and the District of Columbia will cushion the shock of lay-offs unless the current recession continues for several months.

Chairman Arthur J. Altmeyer of the Social Security board told the committee that unemployment compensation was satisfactory as "a first line of defense," but that the deposits of workers earliest affected would be exhausted by extended idleness.

He explained that workers most likely to be affected by the current recession are those who have worked intermittently during the past few months whose reserves are not as substantial as those employed steadily.

Tomorrow the committee will call President William Green of the American Federation of Labor to testify. The federation has maintained its own check on employment throughout the nation and will give its latest results to the committee. It announced yesterday that 723,000 persons lost their jobs during November.

MILK PARLEY

Rehder and Producers Confer on Requirements Tonight.

A round table discussion on grade "A" raw milk and the necessary requirements in its production will be outlined by Dr. Roy C. Rehder, public health commissioner at a meeting with raw milk dealers and producers of the county at the city building tonight.

The meeting was called by the commissioner for the purpose of explaining the requirements necessary to be followed in the production of grade "A" raw milk distributed in Mansfield under an existing ordinance that will be in force after April 1.

A grading period which has been in effect since last April, during which time a proposed amendment calling for the complete pasteurization of the city's milk supply was under consideration, will terminate on that date.

The pasteurization bill was defeated on its final reading at the health board meeting Dec. 6 The grading period which has ended on Jan. 1, was advanced by Dr. Rehder, to April 1, to give producers "time to fix up."

DEMANDS PEACE

Chautemps Says Labor Conflicts Can't Continue.

PARIS—(AP)—Premier Camille Chautemps, declaring that the government can not permit labor conflicts to continue, today called on workers and employers to meet with him to draft new accords "for social peace."

A communique containing the premier's call was issued shortly after the general confederation of labor had accused employers of bad faith.

DIES IN WILLARD AT 67

WILLARD—George W. Miller, 67, native New Haven township farmer, died at the Municipal hospital here early today following a lingering illness. He is survived by his wife, Cora. The body was removed to the Secor funeral home pending completion of arrangements.

The Great Game of Politics

—By FRANK R. KENT

The Bag Holders.

NEITHER Harold Ickes, the bittern-tongued secretary of the interior, nor Robert Jackson, the young assistant attorney general, whose partial friends of the press make a practice of referring to him as "able, brilliant and sincere," have evinced any visible discontent with the presidential message of Monday. None the less, no two men in Washington have as much cause for feeling "let down."

Of course, they are not in a position to say so. Aside from the doglike devotion they profess for their chief, one of these gentlemen wants to hold on to his job and the other is eager to climb the political ladder as high, anyhow, as the governorship of New York. Obviously, neither can afford to dispense with the Roosevelt favor. If their situation were such that they could afford indignation, it is impossible to think they would not display some at the mortifyingly painful way in which, after dutifully playing the president's game, they have been left holding the bag.

IT MAY BE, as is now broadly hinted, that Mr. Roosevelt on Saturday night when he speaks again, by sounding the same note of antagonism and suspicion toward business generally, will remove from Ickes and Jackson the onus of having made themselves ridiculous by solemnly broadcasting a lot of unbounded nonsense. Or he may not. No one can tell what Mr. Roosevelt will do between one morning and the next, but it is certainly true, as things stand today, that no president ever left his subordinates more completely out on a limb upon which he had urged them to perch. Nor do his cloudy words at his most recent press conference about government "sitting in" with business to regulate prices and production, change the fact. That notion seemed advanced more to entertain the newspaper men than for anything else.

* * *

WHAT HAPPENED is clear. As part of a planned political strategy Ickes and Jackson were sent out just prior to the opening of congress to impress the country in a series of speeches with the notion that the present depression is due to a conspiracy upon the part of business to discredit the New Deal; that monopoly has the nation by the throat and 60 sinister families have enslaved the people and are responsible for every unpleasant thing that has happened. It was a calculated piece of demagoguery based on the assumption that the people as a whole are boobs, and Ickes and Jackson did their party very well. The performance, however, was slightly marred by a too great similarity in language as well as ideas—a similarity so marked as to make the conclusion unescapable either that one of them had written the speeches for both or that they had employed the same ghost writer.

* * *

IN ANY EVENT, that the Ickes-Jackson deliverances had presidential approval was—and is—accepted without question. In the first place, men in their position do not make speeches of that character without either inspiration or approbation from the White House incumbent—and in this case they had both. In the second place, beginning with the fact that Ickes and Jackson were both with the president on his recent yachting trip, there is plenty of convincing evidence of the fact. Moreover, there is not the least doubt that Ickes and Jackson believed when they made those speeches, followed as they were by Leon Henderson, another presidential intimate, who talked on similar lines, that Mr. Roosevelt would back them all up in his message.

AND PERHAPS he would if the reaction had not been so bad. But, except from the most pronounced of the yes, yes party senators and the most extreme New Deal radicals, the condemnation was overwhelming. Some of the strongest of the pro-Roosevelt newspapers joined in the general criticism and Ickes and Jackson came in for a deluge of denunciation as having inaugurated a "Week of Hate" at a time when what the country needs above all is co-operation between government and business. In the face of all that, instead of supporting his inspired aids, Mr. Roosevelt ignored every point they made. He failed to touch upon the "conspiracy" charge; he did not mention the 60 sinister families, the list of which included some of his warmest supporters and campaign contributors; he did not indict industry and he patronizingly expressed the opinion that the great bulk of bankers and business men "intend to be good citizens."

* * *

IN OTHER WORDS, he ditched the unfortunate Ickes and the exuberant Jackson very completely indeed. On Saturday night, as indicated today by a confidential spokesman, he may pull them out with a speech in a different key. It was reported, in fact, that if by that time he had not been given evidence that business intended to go along with him he would take a "big stick" and "go after it." If he does, he will turn congress definitely more hostile, but if he does not he leaves Ickes and Jackson in a position where the next time they appear as administration spokesmen, people are just going to laugh. It is, of course, a gain that the public reaction to Ickes and Jackson was such as to divert Mr. Rosevelt from following that lead. It is to be hoped he stays diverted. But, the disquieting thing about the whole incident is the accumulating evidence it furnishes of executive instability. As little as his foes, his friends are unable to tell what Mr. Roosevelt it going to do—after they leave him.

Hollywood Speaks—

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Colleen Moore is the new queen of the screen. Tom Mix is king. Their royal retinue is composed of Fred Thomson, Harold Lloyd, Hoot Gibson, Norma Talmadge, Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks, Thomas Meighan and Reginald Denny.

For these stars, you'll stand in line at theaters, and dig deep in your pockets for change, to laugh and weep at their performances. They're the box-office champions of "wait a minute"—1926 . . .

Eleven years ago, . . . Shirley Temple, the movie queen of 1937—by the Motion Picture Herald's exhibitor poll—was an unknown, even to her parents. . . . Clark Gable was a minor name on theater programs sometimes . . . Robert Taylor and Bing Crosby were schoolkids . . . William Powell was a shade heavy in the silents. . . . Jane Withers wasn't yet en route to her Atlanta home. . . . Fred Astaire had never heard of Ginger Rogers, and vice versa . . . Sonja Henie was a typographical error . . . Gary Cooper was a lanky movie newcomer . . . Myrna Loy was an "Oriental" dancer . . .

None of the first ten of 1926 is anywhere near the charmed circle today. Colleen Moore has a doll house. Tom Mix a circus. Fred Thomson and Thomas Meighan are dead. Harold Lloyd (who's making a picture now) has appeared too infrequently to register heavily. Hoot Gibson ranks 16th among western stars. Norma Talmade is Mrs. George Jessell, retired from the screen. Mary and Doug are inactive. Reginald Denny is a featured player, unmentioned in the poll result but very active in his model airplane business.

The turnover in the "15 honor stars" group has been almost as complete. Wallace Beery, 17th ranking draw in 1926, is 15th now after a period among the first 10. Milton Sills, Lon Chaney and the dog star Rin-Tin-Tin of the 1926 group are dead. Richard Dix, still star-billed, is below the first 60 in 1937. Buck Jones is third among the cowboy stars. Norma Shearer—whose only release last year was "Romeo and Juliet"—dropped to the division below her 1926 rating, after several years among the first 10.

Constance Talmadge has retired, Jack Holt is below the first 60—in such good company as Greta Garbo, Eddie Cantor, Grace Moore—and Marion Davies, rumored retiring, is in the next division. Jackie Coogan—well, he's grown now.

Of 1926's 60 top players, only three are included in this year's top 60—Norma Shearer, Wallace Beery, Ronald Colman. Eleven others are dead, 11 more still starred or featured prominently—but nevertheless are fallen below their former ratings.

And 11 years from now . . . ?

Shall Jilted Boy Take Girl Back?

By VIRGINIA LEE

"Miss Virginia Lee: Miss Lee, I am 21 and in love with a girl, in fact both of us were deeply in love with each other. Then all of a sudden a boy came along and broke it up. The girl said she married him for sympathy and not love.

"I asked her if she knew what she had done. Well, she does now I guess. They were married one year, have one child, and now are separated.

"Miss Lee, tell me, would you give this girl another chance, or try to forget her, I just don't know what to do. T. T."

The girl doesn't seem very well balanced, does she, T. T., to be in love with you and then be swept off her feet by another boy and leave you flat. I hope she won't do anything like that again if you give her the chance you speak of.

She was young and easily influenced, I suppose, and probably has "learned her lesson," as they say.

However, how do you feel about trusting her again? And you are pretty young to be a stepfather. Could you learn to love and be a good dad to the baby?

Frankly, the girl doesn't seem to me to have much sense—dashing off like that and marrying because she was sorry for the chap or something. She didn't give much thought to your feelings. And then she didn't stick to her bargain. If you love her and are sure you won't be afraid she will play some other trick on you after you are married, go ahead. You know her and I don't, and if you think the risk worth taking, good luck to you, my boy.

TWENTY says the other girls who "carouse around" are getting married and the boys are all "play-boys," and good for nothing, and she gets blue and lonesome. "What is the use of trying to be good, anyhow?"

Well, what is the use of letting yourself go and not being good? You really wouldn't be happy "carousing around," and would not have much respect for yourself. Better be lonesome and blue. You needn't be prim and proper in your goodness, showing that you disapprove of others, need you? Be jolly and have faith that your turn will come; you seem to have been unfortunate in your boy friends up to now, but it will not last. You surely will meet some boys who have the same ideas of what is worth while in life, as you have.

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, Jan. 7.

Unsettled and disturbed conditions may be forecast from the day's ruling planetary aspects. While the element of romance and adventure, with the urge for new places, experiences and personal contacts, may have a beneficial outcome, yet there are subtle dangers, delays, obstacles and probably a bereavement to be reckoned with.

Those whose birthday it is are at the threshold of a year in which the new, the untried and the experimental in intellectual, business and private lives attract.

A child born on this day may be restless, sensitive and high-strung, with urges for the unusual, the novel, radical and probably the occult in science, religion and mental and social faculties. It should be successful and probably will attain conspicuous place if its restive and subtle nature is directed.

Blac Mange—One quart milk, six tablespoons cornstarch, one-eighth teaspoon salt, one-half cup sugar, three-fourths teaspoon flavoring. Dissolve cornstarch in little milk, stir sugar and salt in remainder of milk, heat to boiling point and pour in dissolved starch. Bring to boil again, and boil three minutes, stirring constantly. Remove from heat, let stand a moment or two, then flavor with vanilla or lemon, pour into a star aluminum mold which has been dipped in cold water. Serve plain, with cream or with sliced fruit and whipped cream, or whipped cream with cherry garnish.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

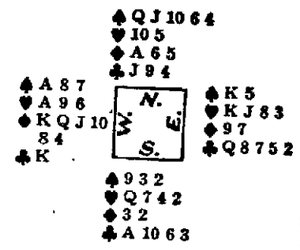
By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

How should West play to make his contract of 3-Hearts, doubled, after the lead of the spade J?

VITAL INTERFERENCE

WEAK HANDS with a fairly long suit make better non-vulnerable overcalls than evenly balanced ones with a bit more honor strength. The latter may be of value defensively if the opponents are allowed to go unimpeded to a high place, whereas no such likelihood confronts the bidder when he has little more than fair suit length. Then a call of his suit may act as an interference bid and toss the monkey wrench into the works for opponents who otherwise may be destined to secure plenty of points.



(Dealer. West. East-West vulnerable.)

This deal arose in a recent duplicate and at some tables the East-West players arrived at a no trump game whereas at others the bidding stopped at 3-Diamonds.

Each West opened the bidding with 1-Diamond. Where the North players passed, East bid clubs, West rebid the diamonds and East went to 3-No Trump.

Some pairs failed to reach this contract because of an interference bid by North. Where a spade was the overcall after the opening bid some East players bid the clubs. South raised the spades and the West players merely rebid the diamonds, as with only one stopper in spades and lacking the diamond A they feared the consequences. East felt obliged to pass this.

As North was not vulnerable, the feeling was that the bid could not be penalized greatly and might prove valuable, which it did.

Expert Gives Advice On Bleaches

By GLADYS GLAD

"America's Most Famous Beauty"

"SOME TIME ago you spoke of the benefits of an almond meal and milk mask for the face. Mother says that she heard of another almond meal face mask that possesses greater bleaching properties than the one you spoke of, but she doesn't recall what ingredients are used in it. Do you know what mask it is that she is referring to?

"FRANCES."

The mask to which your mother refers is probably the almond meal, egg and lemon juice mask. Mix a beaten egg with a cupful of almond meal, and add enough lemon juice to the mixture to make it a smooth paste. Then cleanse your face and neck thoroughly, smooth a bit of tissue cream around your eyes and mouth, and apply the paste. Allow the mask to remain on the face until it is thoroughly dry, taking care that you do not crack it.

When removing the mask, use plenty of warm water and a soft cloth, and avoid rubbing the skin roughly. If your skin is normally dry, it is advisable to apply a coating of cold cream to the face and neck after the mask has been removed. The oily skin, however, generally has no need of such lubrication after the use of this face mask.

"My wrists are very thin and bony. I'd like to rid them of that scrawny appearance. What would you advise me to do?

"EDNA."

Cocoa butter, a product of the oil of the Theobroma tree, is used for fattening purposes. Massage your wrists with warmed cocoa butter nightly before retiring. This will help to fatten the tissues, and round out the wrist contours. Also, practice the following exercises vigorously every day:

Stand erect, arms extended forward at shoulder level. Flap the hands vigorously up and down from the wrists.

Stand erect, hands hanging limply at the sides. Then stiffen the arms and rotate the hands at the wrists, describing wide circles with the fingertips.

Stand erect, arms extended forward at shoulder level. Using the left hand, pull the fingers of the right hand as far back towards the wrist as you can. Then reverse the exercise.

Marriage Meddlers

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

KATIE'S PERCEPTIONS are unusually keen when she doesn't cloud them with her emotional complexes. She also has an unusual sense of humor which she often indulges at her own expense. So after the colloquy in which she said that Mother Graham had threatened to box her ears, "maybe five-six hoondred, maybe tousand times," and I had countered with the query as to how many times my mother-in-law had carried out her threat, I was not surprised after her first bewildered stare to see her tear-bedewed face crinkle into smiles which rapidly progressed to paroxysms of laughter that presently bent her double and caused her to gasp for breath.

"You awful smart vomans, Meesis Graham," she found voice at last to say. "Shoost vun leetle qvestion, aund you show me vot beeg fool I am."

No Answer Needed.

"You haven't answered my question," I reminded her slyly.

"You no need dot answer," she retorted shrewdly. "You know eet all same as me. Old vomans nefer, nefer hit me vunce, not even vun leetle box on mine ear. She all time yell at me, gife me merry hell, say she box mine ears goot, but she nefer, nefer do."

"Well!" I summed up, smiling at her, "then you're not afraid of her any more, are you?"

She snapped her fingers airily.

"I'd be in beeg bizness being 'fraid of poor old vomans vot could not hurt fly," she said in apparent complete forgetfulness of the abject fear she had registered but a few minutes before. Then her face suddenly sobered, grew a trifle sullen.

"I no like her gif me hell vay she does," she said.

I ignored her phraseology, and, as Dicky would have gibed, "turned on the faucets of sweetness and light."

Katie Promises.

"Of course, you don't like it, but you are going to try not to notice anything cross she says, and are going to do your best to please her while you are alone with her. Will you promise me that?"

She made a melodramatic sweep of her hand.

"Me, I cross my heart, hope to die," she declaimed. "I swear me my swear," and I knew that the situation was as safe as it humanly could be made.

"That is all I want to know," I said. "Now, there is one thing more."

Her eyes were again intent on mine.

"Vot dot?" she queried.

"Madame Graham will be alone in the house except for you and Jim, so until Mrs. Bickett comes I want you and Jim to sleep in my room, so as to be near her if she should need you in the night."

Doesn't Like Plan.

Amazement and disapproval were instantly registered on her mobile face.

"Vot foony bizniss is dot?" she demanded. "Me und dot Jeem sleeping in your lufly room? No, no, ve no do dot."

"But," I argued, ""I must have you down on this floor."

"Dot all right," she said. "I coom down. But," she added determinedly, "I no sleep in anybody's bed down here, nor dot Jeem neder. Too much foos changing eferyting round."

"But what will you do?" I asked, bewildered.

"You know dot foony corner in hall shoost by outdoor balcony vere chairs and table are?" she asked after a second's cogitation.

"Yes," I returned, laconically, with a mental picture of the cozy alcove before me.

"Vell! vot matter mit me putting cot dere und curtain in front shoost for few days. Eet shoost oudtside old voman's room, so eef she shoost visper, me, I hear eet."

"But where will Jim sleep?" I asked. "He won't be much good as a bodyguard away off in your wing with Madame Graham and you down here."

Powdered borax added to the water when washing fine white flannels helps to keep them soft.

My Neighbor Says:

Sour cream or milk may be used in any cake recipe if ½ teaspoon of soda is added to each cup of sour milk. Omit 2 teaspoons of baking powder for each ½ teaspoon of soda used. The raising power of ½ teaspoon soda and 1 cup of sour milk equals that of 2 teaspoons of baking powder.

It is well when papering a room to remember that large patterns and dark colors will make it appear smaller, while a plain or striped paper, if a light hue, will give an impression of increased size.

Have a grand holiday? I did, too . . . but now with so many fine sales going on, let's turn our energies to smart buying . . . remember, if you choose wisely you can buy clothes that will do you nicely for next year, too—buy things becoming to YOU and you can't go wrong—IF you steer clear of fads. Sudden fashion whims are delightful, however, and if you can afford it indulge yourself—but if you'd make every penny count—buy conservative clothing — it's always in good taste. The National shoe fair in Chicago sends word that "softies will be our favorite shoe next season—in calfskin, suede, or bucko, and occasionally pigskin . . . blue will again be the outstanding shoe color, but all-over bright shoes will lend spice to our wardrobes. Here's news—your Spring tailleur may have an inner satin lastex foundation to insure smooth lines for the skirts and curb the hips. Now to the snoops at hand here and now . . .

"I owe it all", says modest Mr. Snappy Dresser, to "Goldsmith's clothes." And why not? After all Goldsmith's are well known in this part of the country for their smartly styled clothing for particular men. There's something about the clothes in that store that give an air of youth to whoever wears them . . . whether the man is 16 or 60 . . . he has a natural youthful air, not that of trying to look young. But enough of that . . . If you don't patronize GOLDSMITH'S yourself . . . you have friends who do, and you know from them the quality and style of Goldsmith's clothing. Now here is really big news . . . Tomorrow morning a big sale starts at this store . . . these items and prices will speak for themselves . . . — quality shirts that formerly sold for up to $2.50 apiece are now $1.35 each, 3 shirts for $4.00 . . . smart hats in various styles that were priced to $3.95 are $2.45 . . . better hats, formerly sold at prices up to $5.50 are only $3.45 . . . beautiful neckwear has been reduced 50%, regular Dollar ties selling at 2 for $1.00 . . . there is 25% off on the price of any mackinaw in stock, they are fine all wool coats in smart style and available in all colors . . . 25% off on all robes, smoking jackets, cocktail jackets, and cocktail suits . . . 25% off on all scarfs — that includes silk, silk and wool, and all wool . . . 25% off on all wool hose . . . Topcoats and Overcoats are on sale, too—Devonshire, Stratbury, Fashion Park, and Samuel Martin all included—coats worth up to $26.95 are selling at $17.75, those worth up to $32.50 are $23.75, others formerly priced to $42.50 are now $29.75, regular $55.00 coats are $42.75, and those made to sell for up to $65.00 can be bought for $48.75 . . . Suits, too are drastically reduced! . . . Devonshire, Varsity Town, Charter House, Fashion Park, in Regulars, shorts, stouts, and slims are marked down—regular $21.75 suits are $15.00, those selling for as much as $26.75 are now only $20.00, suits valued at $32.50 are $25.00, others priced up to $39.50 have been reduced to $30.00, $50.00 suits can be bought for $38.75 and $65.00 suits are now only $48.75 . . . and it's all quality Goldsmith merchandise . . . better get there early in the morning for best selections for surely the sale can't last long with such amazing bargains!

You'll be overjoyed at the improvement in the youngsters grades if you give them proper scientific lighting—the OHIO PUBLIC SERVICE CO. has priced I. E. S. lamps so that they're within the budget of every family. Table lamps are $1.95 and up . . . Floor lamps are as low as $11.95.

* * *

And another thing, madam, resolve right now to take proper care of your skin this year . . . start now and perform that thrice daily ritual with cleansing cream, toning skin tonic . . . and don't forget to pat in a good tissue cream at night before retiring. It takes a little time, but it's worth it to notice the difference in the texture of your skin after a short time of loyal treatment. But no matter how hard you try, it will be all in vain, unless you have the right creams. Right in quality, and right for your particular skin. You can be sure of getting pure creams and good sound cosmetic advice if you go to REED'S. They have in stock accredited products that you can trust. So, go to REED'S for your beauty creams, use them faithfully, and have a happy new year!

To Get the Best Cough Remedy, Mix It at Home

Quicker Relief. Big Saving. So Easy. No Cooking.

This famous recipe is used by millions of housewives, because there is no other way to obtain such a dependable, effective remedy for coughs that start from colds. It's so easy to mix—a child could do it.

From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex, a concentrated compound of Norway Pine, famous for its effect on throat and bronchial membranes.

Then make a syrup by stirring two cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. It's no trouble at all, and takes but a moment. No cooking needed.

Put the Pinex into a pint bottle and add your syrup. This gives you a full pint of cough remedy, far superior to anything you could buy ready-made, and you get four times as much for your money. It never spoils, and is very pleasant—children love it.

You'll be amazed by the way it takes hold of severe coughs, giving you double-quick relief. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the inflamed membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.
